Crowd Hears Speeches By Hays, Rahter

Inspection Follows Rites At $120.000 Main St. Building

About 200 attended the dedication program and open house at Wellsville's new $120,000 Post Office Sunday afternoon.

The dedication ceremony was held in the visual education room of Daw Junior High School, followed by a flag-raising ceremony and open house at the new facility at 11th and Main Sts.

The auditorium was filled to overflowing, even though extra seats were set up.

Postmaster Elmer J. Evans gave the welcome. John F. Bryer, president of the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies.

Fr. Gerald X. Curran of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church gave the invocation.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of the 18th Ohio Congressional District and William J. Rahter of Cincinnati, assistant to the regional postal director, were the principal speakers.

It was not known for certain Saturday whether or not Hays would attend, as he was injured in a fall at his home in Flushing Friday. Hays commented on his head injury.

Hays cited Rahter and Walter Spolar, director of community programs for the Post Office Department in Washington, for their work in getting a new Post Office for Wellsville.

Hays reviewed the "red tape" that must be waded through in order to get projects done. In speaking of the Ohio Valley, he commented it "has turned the corner" in the change from a coal-steel-pottery economy to a diversified economy.

He said the change was difficult, but it has been done. He spoke of the huge coal resources

Veteran Commissioner William C. Graham of Chester led the parade this morning as candidates for Hancock County's primary May 12 began filing their petitions at the Courthouse in New Cumberland.

Candidates for sheriff, prosecuting attorney and assessor were among the others who filed formally this morning.

Confirming a recent announcement, Donald Chaney, member of Chester City Council, filed as a Democratic candidate for county sheriff. He was the first on what is likely to be a long list of candidates seeking the job of sheriff. Incumbent Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny cannot succeed himself.

Goldwater, Rockefeller Push On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater launches his campaign for the White House tonight—after vowing that if he gets there and finds it "to our advantage" he will renounce the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

The Arizona senator, his sights trained on the Republican presidential nomination, makes his first speech as a candidate tonight before a GOP fund-raising dinner in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tuesday he turns to the top target in his quest for the nomination: New Hampshire. Goldwater plans to spend three days there, campaigning Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for votes in the March 10 presidential primary, the nation's first of 1964.

Goldwater got in a dig Sunday night at his only announced rival for the nomination, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"Gov. Rockefeller is used to giving money away and I'm not, that's the difference," Goldwater said in calling for revision of the U.N. charter to force its members to pay their dues or lose their votes.

Goldwater also took a crack at President Johnson, calling his government economy drive a show with little substance.

"He is putting up a good front," the senator said. "The neon lights are blinking and the tilt balls are rolling, but he is not an economizer."

ALBANY N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says that if the Republican party nominates him for president, he will offer voters a clear alternative to Democratic party philosophy.

"There are fundamental differences between my views and (Democratic) views," he said in reply to a charge by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that Rockefeller is a "me-too" candidate.

Rockefeller and Goldwater are the only declared candidates for the Republican nomination.

Goldwater announced his candidacy Friday and opened his campaign by saying Rockefeller's views sound more like a Democratic platform than Republican philosophy.

Goldwater, chief spokesman for GOP conservatives, said no other Republican candidate — meaning Rockefeller—could offer voters a genuine alternative to the Democratic administration of President Johnson.

Rockefeller, who resumed his campaign in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary over the weekend, told a news conference in Concord: "I don't think that 'me-too' label has any application (to me)...I think that was just a political statement on his part."

Rockefeller knows his reputation as a liberal could be troublesome in New Hampshire. His first major political speech in this campaign contained a detailed analysis of his "fundamental differences" with Democrats on such issues as balanced budgets and centralized government.

Rockefeller indicated at a news conference he would concentrate his immediate fire on Goldwater.

Pope Paul Urges World Peace In Bethlehem Appeal

Unity Asked As Pontiff's Tour Ends

Athenagoras Joins Catholic Leader In Prayer For Future

BETHLEHEM (AP) — From the birthplace of Christ, Pope Paul VI appealed to world leaders today to keep peace in the world and for Christians to unite.

Packing history into the last day of his three-day pilgrimage of peace to the Holy Land, the supreme pontiff of 550 million Roman Catholics returned to Jerusalem to join Patriarch Athenagoras I, spiritual leader of world orthodoxy, in praying that their meetings will be a "prelude of things to come for the glory of God."

These were the final highlights of the Pope's unprecedented visit to the Holy Land, for then he drove to Amman, the Jordan capital, and flew back home.

As his historic three-day pilgrimage in the Holy Land neared its end, the 66-year-old pontiff issued greetings of good will to all men—Christian and non-believer. Departing from his prepared text, he called on the world's chiefs of state to press for peace.

The Pope urged Roman Catholics to do all they can to revitalize their Church in the quest for unity and appealed to non-Catholic Christians to join in the cause.

"Today the will of Christ is pressing upon us and obliging us to do all that we can, with love and wisdom, to bring to all Christians the supreme blessing and honor of a united church," he said.

Winter Sport Program Due At City's Park

Recreation Council Will Assist Skating Sledding Project

Mayor Merrill D. Hall announced today supervised sledriding and ice skating will be available at Thompson Park.

Supervisors for both sports will be at the park each night from 6 to 10 and on Saturdays, Sundays and any day there is no school from 2 to 5 p.m., the mayor said. No tobogganing will be permitted, he added.

Final arrangements for the first supervised winter sports program in the park's history were completed Sunday when the East Liverpool Recreation Council agreed to pay the wages of the supervisors, Hall said.

The Board of Thompson Park Commissioners had agreed unanimously to the plan when it met with Hall and his safety-service director - designate, Robert Vodrey, on Thursday.

Tentative plans call for sledriders to use the road from the park entrance on Park Way to the municipal swimming pool, Hall said. The long grade will give sledders ample opportunity for coasting.

The mayor said the coasters can continue to Dixonville or

Rain Freezes On Highway, Slowing Cars

Freezing rain put a thin glaze of ice on highways throughout the area this morning, slowing traffic to a crawl and causing a series of crashes.

The rain began in earnest shortly before 8 a. m. Although the temperature at the time was 37 degrees in the downtown area — well above freezing — a thin coat of ice developed on the pavements.

But conditions were much worse in outlying areas, where the temperature was lower.

The in-bound lanes of the Freeway in California Hollow were reported "a solid glare of ice." Traffic crept at 20 miles an hour or slower on the glazed surface.

The section of the Freeway inside the city limits had been ashed and motorists encountered little difficulty.

Highways crews were called out throughout the area as the hazardous driving conditions spread. However, the emergency was dispelled quickly by rising temperatures.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the highways were very hazardous earlier in the morning. Road crews started spreading salt on Routes 7, 30, 45, and 39 to melt the ice. The

Boy, 17, Hurt In Auto Crash On Park Way

Car Rams Into Tree After Rebounding Off Embankment

A city youth was hospitalized and eight other persons were injured as the result of four area accidents investigated over the weekend by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

William Miller, 17, son of Mrs. Sue Miller, 758 Garner Ave., was in "guarded" condition today at City Hospital with head injuries suffered when the car in which he was passenger struck a tree on Park Way Ext. about a mile and a half north of Route 39 Sunday at 12:45 a. m.

Officers said he was a passenger in a car driven by Donald Eiferd, 17, son of Elmer Eiferd of Cannons Mill Rd.

Eiferd was headed north when he lost control of the car, which went off the left side of the highway and struck an embankment. The car then crossed back over the highway, went off the left side and hit the tree, officers reported.

Miller suffered lacerations of the left side of the head and a possible skull fracture. Eiferd was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the lip and contusions of the chest.

A Wellsville couple was injured in a two-car collision Sunday at 3:30 p. m. on Route 172 almost four miles west of Route 30 in the Guilford Lake area.

The crash involved cars driven by Donald Phillips, 19, of Lisbon R. D. 4 and Robert Krafft, 40, of 1748 Chester Ave., Wellsville. Phillips halted for a stop sign at the intersection of Kampf Rd. and then pulled into the path of Krafft, the patrol said.

Krafft was treated at City Hospital for a sprained ankle, bruised mouth and contusions of the knees. His wife, Mrs. LaVerne Krafft, 33, was treated for contusions of the right knee, a possible fractured ankle and contusions of the nose and forehead.

Phillips was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

German Reds Seal Wall, Partings Cause Sorrow

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists sealed the Berlin wall again today, ending 17 days of joyous family reunions and heart - breaking partings.

A record number of more than a quarter million West Berliners poured into the Communist zone Sunday — the last day for visits under a Christmas agreement negotiated between the West Berlin city government and the Communist East German regime. The crossings started Dec. 19.

The crush was so big that tens of thousands returning to West Berlin were still waiting at the snow-covered Communist checkpoints when the visiting period expired at midnight.

Authorities said 1,318,000 permits were issued for crossings, but many West Berliners made several trips.

"The honeymoon is over," observed a Westerner.

But there were flickering hopes the West Berlin government could negotiate a new agreement with the Reds in talks scheduled to start this week.

The Western Allies, who are responsible for the security of West Berlin, have given their blessings to the talks. But they have warned Mayor Willy Brandt not to jeopardize the Western stand against recognition of the East German Communist regime.

Ruling Ousts Delegates In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — A dozen West Virginia lawmakers found themselves "homeless" today as the entire 106-member House of Delegates faced the remote prospect of statewide campaigns for re-election next fall.

Judge Frank L. Taylor of Kanahaw County Circuit Court ruled unconstitutional Sunday the section of last year's reapportionment act that assigns one House seat apiece to 12 sparsely populated counties.

The immediate effect was a series of hasty huddles among lawyers and legislators as plans were made to appeal the decision.

If the State Supreme Court is asked to rule on Taylor's decision and upholds it, the Legislature will have the task of passing another act distributing its House membership. Failing this, all 106 delegates would be forced to run next fall as delegates-at-large.

Taylor struck down the section of the 1963 act that allows one delegate each for Calhoun, Doddridge, Gilmer, Grant, Hardy, Morgan, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Tucker, Tyler and Wirt counties.

He said in his opinion that the section violated the State Constitution provision that requires counties with few people to surrender individual delegates and share delegates with adjoining counties.

The rural counties traditionally have sent their own delegates to the Legislature and efforts of heavily populated counties to put a stop to the practice have met with no success.

Taylor's ruling is a step in favor of the urban counties.

Gov. W. W. Barron refused to comment on the decision.

"I intend to discuss the matter with the attorney general at the earliest opportunity today to determine what action should be taken," Barron said.

It is too late for Barron to put the reapportionment issue on the agenda for the legislative session, which convenes Wednesday.

If the lawmakers want to reapportion their membership, it will take a two-thirds vote of both houses to bring the matter up. This technically is a "budget session," reserved only for fiscal matters and emergencies.

Another of the many complications caused by Taylor's ruling is its effect on candidates for the House in 1964.

The filing deadline is Feb. 1, but nobody can know how many delegates will end up in each county until the issue is resolved. A candidate could file for nomination, then find there is no seat for him in the House.

Two possibilities arise: the Legislature could extend the filing deadline until the issue is settled, or and this is less likely, the problems will be cleared up by Feb. 1.

Ruling Ousts Delegates In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — A dozen West Virginia lawmakers found themselves "homeless" today as the entire 106-member House of Delegates faced the remote prospect of statewide campaigns for re-election next fall.

Judge Frank L. Taylor of Kanahaw County Circuit Court ruled unconstitutional Sunday the section of last year's reapportionment act that assigns one House seat apiece to 12 sparsely populated counties.

The immediate effect was a series of hasty huddles among lawyers and legislators as plans were made to appeal the decision.

If the State Supreme Court is asked to rule on Taylor's decision and upholds it, the Legislature will have the task of passing another act distributing its House membership. Failing this, all 106 delegates would be forced to run next fall as delegates-at-large.

Taylor struck down the section of the 1963 act that allows one delegate each for Calhoun, Doddridge, Gilmer, Grant, Hardy, Morgan, Pendleton, Pleasants, Pocahontas, Tucker, Tyler and Wirt counties.

He said in his opinion that the section violated the State Constitution provision that requires counties with few people to surrender individual delegates and share delegates with adjoining counties.

The rural counties traditionally have sent their own delegates to the Legislature and efforts of heavily populated counties to put a stop to the practice have met with no success.

Taylor's ruling is a step in favor of the urban counties.

Gov. W. W. Barron refused to comment on the decision.

"I intend to discuss the matter with the attorney general at the earliest opportunity today to determine what action should be taken," Barron said.

It is too late for Barron to put the reapportionment issue on the agenda for the legislative session, which convenes Wednesday.

found in Belmont County, the new industries locating in the area and the new highways being built.

The situation has changed to the point that young people will be coming here for employment instead of leaving, Hays said.

"We have a future to look forward to and the Wellsville Post Office is part of the picture," he said.

Rahter commented that he was told the first federal man visited Wellsville in 1913 seeking a site for a new Post Office.

"Now, 50 years later, we have it," he said.

Rahter said the department is adding one new building every three and a half days in the district of Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio. He said Wellsville's new facility and another were the 305th and 306th to be dedicated on Sunday.

The postal service is the greatest link man ever has devised, he said. Rahter also told how each new post office adds to the economy of the community. He said that many persons say "put the Post Offices on a paying basis as business or close them down." He said Wellsville would not have a Post Office if these words were heeded.

Wellsville's receipts are about $51,000 a year, while it takes about $100,000 a year to operate the facility.

We will do it as economically as possible, but we will not turn our backs on the people," he said.

Spolar spoke briefly, citing Hays for his work and foresight. He commented all businesses rely on the postal system. No other federal branch so directly touches the citizens of this country, he said.

Bryer introduced postmasters of more than 20 communites in the district. He also introduced Donald Burdman and Kenneth Burdman of the Better Home Investment Corp. of Youngstown, the firm that constructed the building.

Hays presented Evans with a large nylon flag that had been flown over the Capitol in Washington as well as the Post Office Department building in Washington.

The new flag was carried to the Post Office by the drill team and color guard of VFW Post 9285. It was raised while the Wellsville High School Band played the National Anthem. The Rev. James Sanko of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church offered the invocation.

Refreshments were provided by members of the Wellsville Women's Civic Club at the Post Office.

The dedication committee included Bryer, Allen Dalrymple, George Rowen, Evans and Atty. William Bush, Chamber secretary.

The building has been in use since December. The dedication was postponed because of the death of President Kennedy.

Officers said there were several accidents, all of a minor nature, because of the icy conditions.

Wellsville police also were plagued with a rash of minor accidents because of the slippery streets. At least nine were reported within a period of about 90 minutes. No one was reported injured.

The Wellsville school buses were delayed in making the rounds this morning because of the bad road conditions.

Wellsville police said one bus, loaded with children, halted on the Route 45 hill near the entrance to the H. K. Porter Co. clay mine and remained there until about 10 a. m. until an ash truck went by. Another bus, which was empty, was not able to ascend the hill until the truck spread ashes.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said it had received reports of at least 10 accidents. All apparently were minor.

A skidding accident tied up traffic this morning on the Lawrenceville Hill near Chester.

Chief Clarence Lennens said a woman driver lost control of her car on the ice-covered highway, causing it to slide into a ditch and then wind up sideways on the road. A second car hit the woman's auto. Damage was minor. The investigation is incomplete.

The Ohio weatherman said it will be mostly cloudy and colder tonight, with a low of 25-31 Tuesday will be fair with little temperature change. The overnight low in the downtown area was 29.

Pelley was cited for speed in excess of road conditions.

Five were hurt in a two-car crash Saturday at 11:30 a. m. on Route 164 almost a mile south of Columbiana.

Officers said a car driven by Lawrence Bable, 35, of New Waterford R. D. 1 backed from the parking lot of Theron's Market into the path of an oncoming car driven by Thurman Seevers, 50, of Poland.

Bable, who suffered a cerebral concussion, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way. He was admitted to Salem City Hospital, but released Sunday.

Also injured were his son, James Bable, 16, who suffered multiple severe lacerations of the face, a fractured right wrist and lacerations of the knee.

Seevers suffered a laceration of the lower lip. His wife, Mrs. Joyce Seevers, 45, had extensive lacerations of the forehead and his daughter, Darla Seevers, 16, suffered contusions of the legs.

All were taken to Salem City Hospital.

Mrs. Seevers was in "fairly good" condition while young Bable was in "fair" condition. The others were released after treatment.

turn their sleds into the roadway to the Little League diamond and then walk back to the starting point.

Tentative plans call for park benches to be removed from the upper pavilion and the area to be flooded, with a temporary retaining wall of sandbags used to hold the water until it is frozen.

Hall said George Bloomgren, city engineer, will check to make certain the upper pavilion can be used. He pointed out the large picnic area has lights and a wood - fired stove in the kitchen which can be used by the skaters.

Joseph Walters, new park superintendent, will be in overall charge, with the supervisors to be selected by the Recreation Council.

The council will pay the supervisors $1.75 an hour. Anyone interested in working as a supervisor may contact Ed Adkins, Recreation Council president, Hall said.

The afternoon hours may be subject to change if there is a demand for sled - riding on Saturday mornings, the mayor explained.

He expressed his appreciation to the Park Board and Recreation Council for their co-operation in arranging the program.

Epiphany, commemorating the visit of the three Wise Men to the manger and the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. Pope Paul was the first Roman pontiff known to have visited the spot of the Nativity.

Thousands thronged the town of Christ's birth for the pontiff's historic visit and for Orthodox Christmas Eve services starting three hours after the Pope's visit. But Jordanian troops and police took extraordinary precautions to prevent the mob scene that threatened the Pope's safety in the old city of Jerusalem Saturday.

Coils of barbed wire, iron barriers and rows of armed troops ringed Manger Square outside the Church of the Nativity. Police and troops closed the winding road from Jerusalem long before the Pope's arrival, and only about 2,000 children and other spectators were allowed in the square. But surrounding rooftops and streets were jammed.

'Pay Taxes,' Judge Tells 2

Two defendants accused of violating the city income tax law were warned today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to be prepared to go to jail when they appear Wednesday unless they have paid the amounts due the city.

The judge continued the cases of Earl E. Baughman, 925 May St., and J. R. Brenneman, 1608 Alpha St., until Wednesday morning after both told the court they were prepared to pay Tuesday.

If they make the payments to the tax office and then pay the court costs, the charges will be dismissed, Judge Chertoff said. Both are accused of failing to file a final return on 1962 income and an estimate on 1963 income.

In Baughman's hearing, D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner, said the defendant has paid $10 on his 1962 return and has promised to pay $1.26 due, but has paid nothing on the 1963 estimate.

"If you haven't paid the balance of 1962 and all of 1963 by Wednesday, be prepared to go to jail," the judge said.

Brenneman said he conferred with Wilkinson this morning and had made arrangements to pay. He drew the same warning from Judge Chertoff.

Leonard Miller of Gaddes St. was found guilty on a charge of failing to file an estimate of his 1963 earnings and was fined $25 and costs. However, Chertoff suspended the fine on payment of costs.

turn their sleds into the roadway to the Little League diamond and then walk back to the starting point.

Tentative plans call for park benches to be removed from the upper pavilion and the area to be flooded, with a temporary retaining wall of sandbags used to hold the water until it is frozen.

Hall said George Bloomgren, city engineer, will check to make certain the upper pavilion can be used. He pointed out the large picnic area has lights and a wood - fired stove in the kitchen which can be used by the skaters.

Joseph Walters, new park superintendent, will be in overall charge, with the supervisors to be selected by the Recreation Council.

The council will pay the supervisors $1.75 an hour. Anyone interested in working as a supervisor may contact Ed Adkins, Recreation Council president, Hall said.

The afternoon hours may be subject to change if there is a demand for sled - riding on Saturday mornings, the mayor explained.

He expressed his appreciation to the Park Board and Recreation Council for their co-operation in arranging the program.

Bar Association Election Planned

LISBON — The Columbiana County Bar Association will elect new officers today at a meeting marking the opening of the January Term of Common Pleas Court.

The Bar Association held a dinner meeting at noon today in the McKinley Room of the VFW Home. It then was scheduled to adjourn to the Courthouse for the annual business meeting and election. Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers is president.

A 15-member Grand Jury will be chosen Tuesday morning and sworn in by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard, who will handle criminal cases in the new term.

The panel is scheduled to consider at least 26 cases. It is expected to report late Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning.

Pope

Epiphany, commemorating the visit of the three Wise Men to the manger and the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. Pope Paul was the first Roman pontiff known to have visited the spot of the Nativity.

Thousands thronged the town of Christ's birth for the pontiff's historic visit and for Orthodox Christmas Eve services starting three hours after the Pope's visit. But Jordanian troops and police took extraordinary precautions to prevent the mob scene that threatened the Pope's safety in the old city of Jerusalem Saturday.

Coils of barbed wire, iron barriers and rows of armed troops ringed Manger Square outside the Church of the Nativity. Police and troops closed the winding road from Jerusalem long before the Pope's arrival, and only about 2,000 children and other spectators were allowed in the square. But surrounding rooftops and streets were jammed.

'Pay Taxes,' Judge Tells 2

Two defendants accused of violating the city income tax law were warned today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to be prepared to go to jail when they appear Wednesday unless they have paid the amounts due the city.

The judge continued the cases of Earl E. Baughman, 925 May St., and J. R. Brenneman, 1693 Alpha St., until Wednesday morning after both told the court they were prepared to pay Tuesday.

If they make the payments to the tax office and then pay the court costs, the charges will be dismissed, Judge Chertoff said. Both are accused of failing to file a final return on 1962 income and an estimate on 1963 income.

In Baughman's hearing, D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner, said the defendant has paid $10 on his 1962 return and has promised to pay $1.26 due, but has paid nothing on the 1963 estimate.

"If you haven't paid the balance of 1962 and all of 1963 by Wednesday, be prepared to go to jail," the judge said.

Brenneman said he conferred with Wilkinson this morning and had made arrangements to pay. He drew the same warning from Judge Chertoff.

Leonard Miller of Gaddes St. was found guilty on a charge of failing to file an estimate of his 1963 earnings and was fined $25 and costs. However, Chertoff suspended the fine on payment of costs.

We can't blame Ohioans if they're mystified after witnessing state and national lawmakers in action in 1963.

On the one hand was the 105th Ohio General Assembly. It breezed through its biennial work load in a little more than six months and enacted a raft of important laws.

On the other hand was the 88th Congress. It slogged its way to a peacetime record for length of session and could count only a few major accomplishments after finally calling it quits late last month.

What might puzzle Ohioans most about this is that both legislative bodies contained lopsided majorities of the chief executive's political party—Democrats in Assembly. But there was a striking difference in the way the majorities treated the executives' programs.

OHIO REPUBLICANS responded quickly and favorably to the wishes of a Republican governor. Congressional Democrats balked hard at the programs of a Democratic president.

Although many theories are heard, we think one fact explains the difference: Lawmakers are sensitive to the wishes of the people who elect them. That made things easy for Gov. Rhodes. He sailed into office on a cushion of nearly 500,000 votes, and carried 85 of Ohio's 88 counties. Republicans who control the General Assembly found it easy and politically feasible to accept a program already endorsed by a substantial majority of the electorate.

IT WAS A MUCH different story for the late President Kennedy.

There was no clear mandate from the nation's voters in the 1960 presidential election.

Add to this the fact Mr. Kennedy's program to move the nation came at a time of relative prosperity when the people weren't clamoring for a change, and you have the major reason for reluctance in Congress, in contrast with alacrity in Ohio.

—And All Of It Free

If it makes sense to charge all the cost of education to the public at large, the Educational Policies Commission has come up with a fine idea.

The commission, sponsored by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators, proposes two years of college for all students capable of using it added to 12 years of free public schooling now being paid for by taxpayers in general.

Not only should tuition for the two extra years be waived, but if no campus is nearby the students' traveling expenses, or their expenses while living away from home, should be borne by taxpayers, according to the commission's recommendations.

JUSTIFICATION for this would be the need for more intensive training. That is always a strong talking point, but equally strong is the inequity involved in all education systems that shift costs from direct to indirect beneficiaries. The inequity is a talking point that keeps getting more attention as educational costs soar.

There once was a standard idea in the United States that people who wanted additional education should pay extra for getting it. There even was an idea that working one's way through college and graduate school put added luster on an individual's accomplishment.

No one dreamed of demanding as a right what others still regarded as a privilege. Yet, today, professional educators are backing a proposal to give two years of college to beneficiaries scot-free, shifting the cost to the general public.

UNDER THIS proposal, a millionaire's son could be educated for up to 14 years at no direct cost to his family, while the family of some other student might be obliged to pay not only going rates of taxation to support such a system but special charges for voluntary education.

After all, not even the wildest dreamers have proposed yet that every student get all his education at taxpayers' expenses, including taxpayers with no children.

An Article Of Faith

It will be noted when Congress gets back into stride this month that Secretary of Defense McNamara has removed a billion dollars from the new defense budget with no more trouble than it takes to remove a letter from an unsealed enevelope.

He just took it out and dropped it in the wastebasket, thus reducing the defense budget from $52 billion to $51 billion — just like that.

This is an article of faith with the ordinary Joe Taxpayer of the U. S. A. — that the Department of Defense, which spends more than half of all federal money can substract a billion dollars any day it feels like it — just like that.

TAXPAYERS believe this because they have seen abundant proof that the Department of Defense can add a billion any day it feels like it. It can decide to tackle a new project. It can decide to experiment with a new weapon. It can reshuffle the papers on its desks and presto, a billion has been added. Just like that.

When President Eisenhower was leaving office at the end of his second term he warned that this could wreck the nation, because spenders would become the sole means of supporting a money-hungry armaments industry that wouldn't stand for cutbacks.

Only a few days ago, Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, the atomic submarine expert, criticized purveyors of military hardware for alleged profiteering. This also is part of the background for the taxpayers' article of faith that billions could be taken away from the Department of Defense as handily as they were added on and national defense would be none the poorer. Profiteering could be eliminated.

IF IT TURNS out that President Johnson also clings to this point of view and is not cowed by military spenders who never have enough, a budget miracle could be in the making. Secretary of Defense McNamara could balance it singlehanded.

He could lop off another billion next week — $2 billion subtracted from $52 billion — 3.864 per cent. The rest of us do it all the time. He could take off a billion a week until the budget was balanced.

Snow Squawkers

By Truman Twill

I've never got used to snow squawkers.

They're the featherbrains who get sore because all highways, streets, intersections and sidewalks aren't cleared of snow instantly.

They blast negligent public officials and their no-account employes for not removing all snowdrifts simultaneously on all roads.

They point accusing fingers at public authority for not having all downtown streets and all residential thoroughfares swept clean in a matter of hours.

They demand a full-dress investigation of somebody's criminal negligence if their cars slide into a ditch or a little snow gets inside their galoshes.

I've never got used to the squawkers. I quit trying to understand them long ago.

Some of them don't clean their own sidewalks. They wouldn't lift a finger to help another motorist in distress if it was their mother.

They are not infrequently public-de-damned characters who shovel sidewalk snow into the street where somebody else can worry about getting rid of it, then whimper because they cannot pull up to the curb.

IF IT'S slippery, they spin their wheels and blame someone else. They don't have so much as a bucket of sand to help themselves, but they expect road crews to sprinkle sand and salt on hundreds of miles of highways instantaneously.

They pay no attention to the condition of their car, but when cold weather catches them with a weak battery and beat-up plugs they weep and wail if the rescue squad doesn't show up in 15 minutes.

They know no more about operating an automobile in winter than an Eskimo knows about sponge-diving, yet they blame every mishap on circumstances beyond their control.

The more I think about snow squawkers, the less I think it would be worthwhile to try to understand them. They were born to squawk.

AND AS FAR as snow is concerned, it behooves us all to be philosophical about what it does to people. They can get as crazy from the snow as they get from the heat.

There's only one sensible way to cope with snow — live with it on its terms. With patience, it will go away. It can be taken away, in some situations. But not instantaneously.

Don't fight snow. Live with it. Nothing is so important it's worth getting stuck for.

Let the snow squawkers squawk if it gives them pleasure. The rest of us will settle for being snowbound — quietly, resignedly, contentedly. And there won't be a peep out of us.

Odd Facts

Hail storms can be deadly to the unprotected man. For example, a hailstone of three or four inches in diameter (not uncommon) can weigh up to a pound and fall at speeds of from 90 to 110 miles an hour. The effect of being hit by one of these would be much worse than being hit by the fastest baseball pitched.

More and more American parents are looking "up" to their sons and daughters. According to latest estimate, the rising generation is "rising" at least one inch taller than Mom and Pop.

According to latest estimates, our earth's supply of petroleum and natural gas will be 80 per cent depleted in 80 years.

Too Many Pocahontases!

A Case Of Political Quackery

By Raymond Moley

It's unfortunate that before the Ecumenical Council completed its deliberations, it did not add an eighth sin to the seven which as a boy I was required to memorize from my catechism. This is, according to Webster, "the practices and pretensions of a quack"; a quack being a "pretender" to medical skill which is not there.

The medical profession has spoken and acted against quacks since the days of Hippocrates.

Quackery is an especially cruel offense against innocent fellow beings. In practice it offers the promise, for profit of course, to afflicted individuals of a "cure" through means that cannot be justified by scientific tests or experience. While the victim is using the supposed remedy, he is neglecting methods of treatment which are not spectacular but are genuine and helpful.

IN EVERY legitimate organization dedicated to conquering one or another of the diseases that afflict the human race, the utmost care is taken to excite nothing but rational hopes of relief.

Politics, as we all know, has no such ethical bars against raising false expectations. Promises are made which under rational examination prove to be impossible of fulfillment. For the most part, the cynicism of the public toward political promises is a measurable protection against the danger of false hopes. But the fact is that some will believe in nostrums.

It's in the general realm of this unfortunate practice that the Johnson administration has promulgated the idea that plans have been made to abolish poverty in the United States. Unfortunately, many members of the press, including some widely read and widely heard commentators, perhaps because this is an interim when news is so scarce, have fallen for this old gag.

IT'S OLD because Julius Caesar, a consummate demagogue, won his imperial way in Roman politics by feeding the multitude out of the riches he purloined from the provinces he conquered and out of the riches of the patricians he killed and robbed. For a while the beneficiaries of Caesar's largesse had a wonderful time.

But poverty remained, and the Roman character deteriorated while Caesar's successors wallowed in gaudy luxury.

Ultimately, those deluded people were conquered by the sturdy minions of the provinces the Caesars had conquered.

I regard with enthusiasm the fact that because of our economic growth, wise philanthropy, and the humane actions of our government the well-being of Americans has risen spectacularly in the past century. And the end of improvement is not yet, if we avoid political nostrums.

THE PROMISE of extinguishing poverty is, however, presented as something new, a discovery by a political regime which claims that it, and it alone, has a heart and had discovered humane virtue.

We are told that because one-third (some say one-fourth) of our families have an income of less than $3,000 a year, they are poor.

Those statistics and the inferences they convey are pulled out of the air. Many families with such incomes are living comfortably. They do not call themselves poor. In alleviating needs we must consider individual cases.

The political motivations of this "new" proposal to abolish poverty will be clear when the budget is submitted this month. Faced by the spending of something more than $100 billion, this administration cannot cut welfare programs already in existence.

THAT WOULD BE fatal in an election year. So in submitting a long list of requests, someone thought up and President Johnson suggested the idea of packaging all these with a nice and alluring generality, "the abolition of poverty." Why? Everybody wants that. But Americans should realize that the coming program is merely "the same, but more."

Johnson's Problems

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

President Johnson, up against two tests since he took office, has worked on one from the beginning and starts in earnest on his second one Tuesday. His destiny is interlocked with both of them.

The first—how to keep himself in the public eye and mind, favorably, to get elected next November. President Kennedy had almost three years to do this. Johnson has less than a year. He has been working overtime at it.

The second—how to get work out of the Congress. It has been criticized for laziness and stalling. It is perhaps the most criticized Congress in this century. It shows not much sign of embarrassment.

He will help himself politically by staying in public view with statements, pronouncements, programs and camera appearances. He will hurt himself politically if he can't get his programs through Congress.

No wonder, if numbers are the yardstick. In the House his Democrats outnumber Republicans 256 to 178 and in the Senate 67 to 33. But at this time in American politics and history the numbers are part of a myth.

The myth is that there are only two political parties. Actually, there are several, although all huddle under the test of one party or the other. Each is made up of liberals, conservatives and reactionaries.

For this reason—because the various groups shift and team up, ignoring party labels on specific issues — presidential programs often get ignored or slaughtered.

It is ironic that the more successful a president is—say in foreign affairs, in guiding the economy to prosperity, in giving the people through his leadership a sense of safety and well-being—the less he'll get from Congress.

The reason: Congress seems to have reached a point where it is reluctant to act unless there is a crisis or unless it is under great public pressure in some particular moment of public need.

But when things are going well, in the fields outside Congress, the less action can be expected. That's about the best explanation that can be offered for congressional delay on a tax cut and civil rights in 1963.

This year being an election year there will be a special incentive for both House and Senate to do more than last year so those seeking re-election can point to something when they go to the voters next November.

It is this psychology of an election year which may be Johnson's greatest help in trying to get his programs through, programs which will be basically Kennedy's programs, unless Johnson adds new ones in his State of the Union message this week.

But the election pressures alone won't mean success for Johnson, not in a Congress with such divisions in attitudes as this one, plus the yearly wheeling and dealing on issues.

Since Johnson is not as placid a man as Kennedy—at least on the surface—the chances look good that he may get tough, if Congress frustrates him, and get into fights. Fights, in turn, might hurt him in the public eye.

'Police State,' D.C.

By David Lawrence

Housing Law Stirs Speculation

Maybe the news ought to be hushed up, though Moscow would soon learn the truth anyhow, namely, that within the last three days a form of "police state" has been established in the District of Columbia.

David Lawrence

The capital of the United States is supposed to be governed by laws passed by Congress. The three commissioners are appointed by the president, but they have no authority to write laws. They nevertheless have promulgated a "law" which imposes fines and jail sentences on any citizen—whether he be a property owner or a real estate salesman or in the real estate business—who refuses or fails to sell or rent "housing accommodations" to "any person because of the race, color, religion or national origin of such person."

Almost all of the states of the Union have not gone that far. Indeed, the Supreme Court of the United States in 1948 upheld the right of citizens not only collectively but individually to dispose of their property to whomever they pleased and to select a purchaser by any process of choice they cared to exercise.

The Supreme Court, in this case—known as Hurd V. Hodge—declared that, while a group of citizens in Washington, D.C., might enter into an agreement not to sell their property to certain purchasers, such an agreement could not be enforced in the courts or any dissenting signatory.

NOWHERE in the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are local officials, but they rarely do anything of great importance without the guidance of the White House. The late President Kennedy favored the issuance of an order forbidding any racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing in the District, but the order was held in abeyance.

Congressional committees expressed their disapproval and warned against action by the commissioners. There is no information available as to whether President Johnson was consulted by the commissioners before they announced that on Jan. 20 the new "law" will become effective.

The net effect of this development is to give support to the argument that "the end justifies the means." In the absence of action by Congress, the district commissioners went ahead anyhow. President Johnson will soon have to disclose whether he is in favor of the step taken by the district officials.

The text of the order issued by the commissioners says that "the police regulations of the District of Columbia" are to be considered as amended and that the action has been rendered necessary because, among other things, there is a "clear relationship between poor housing conditions and the health and comfort of the occupants, and the effects of such conditions also constitute a danger to the property of both whites and Negroes."

CONGRESS 72 years ago gave the commissioners the right to make "police regulations" primarily to preserve order but nothing was said about the right of individuals under the Constitution to dispose of their property in any way they wish.

The Washington Star says editorially:

"Finally, the mere existence of the district ordinance is bound to affect thinking in the suburbs to some extent. And in the final analysis, this may be the most important effect of all. For despite the injustices which no doubt exist within the district, the goal of providing more and better housing for Negroes will not be fully realized until the barriers also are relaxed to a greater degree beyond the city limits."

But the nearby states of Maryland and Virginia have not passed any law interfering with the rights of citizens to use their own discretion in whatever sales of their property they may wish to make, nor is there any statute before Congress which goes that far.

The Washington Post in an editorial says:

"No one can expect this new law to have a sudden and radical effect upon Washington's overpriced housing market for Negroes. The uniformly white neighborhoods in the city are usually the expensive ones, and the ordinance cannot breach economic segregation."

SUCH A PREDICTION now is surrounded by doubt. For if the district commissioners can pass a "law" as an amendment to "police regulations" demanding that citizens dispose of their property in accordance with the dictates of the commissioners, then there is no reason why economic help cannot be demanded by citizens who cannot afford adequate housing and who would be assisted through taxpayers' money made available for that purpose.

The district commissioners cannot, of course, disburse public funds on their own initiative. They must have a law of Congress behind them, and it seems unlikely that Congress would appropriate money to subsidize residents of the district so that individuals with low incomes may enjoy more adequate housing in the better sections of the city, where most of the government officials reside.

A majority of the residents in the City of Washington now are Negroes, and there are demands for "home rule." If this comes, the district officials would then have control of the disbursement of all tax receipts and would be in a position to bring about "economic integration"—which, theoretically at least, it might be argued, would be just another form of equal rights.

There once was a standard idea in the United States that people who wanted additional education should pay extra for getting it. There even was an idea that working one's way through college and graduate school put added luster on an individual's accomplishment.

No one dreamed of demanding as a right what others still regarded as a privilege. Yet, today, professional educators are backing a proposal to give two years of college to beneficiaries scot-free, shifting the cost to the general public.

UNDER THIS proposal, a millionaire's son could be educated for up to 14 years at no direct cost to his family, while the family of some other student might be obliged to pay not only going rates of taxation to support such a system but special charges for voluntary education.

After all, not even the wildest dreamers have proposed yet that every student get all his education at taxpayers' expenses, including taxpayers with no children.

An Article Of Faith

It will be noted when Congress gets back into stride this month that Secretary of Defense McNamara has removed a billion dollars from the new defense budget with no more trouble than it takes to remove a letter from an unsealed enevelope.

He just took it out and dropped it in the wastebasket, thus reducing the defense budget from $52 billion to $51 billion — just like that.

This is an article of faith with the ordinary Joe Taxpayer of the U. S. A. — that the Department of Defense, which spends more than half of all federal money can substract a billion dollars any day it feels like it — just like that.

TAXPAYERS believe this because they have seen abundant proof that the Department of Defense can add a billion any day it feels like it. It can decide to tackle a new project. It can decide to experiment with a new weapon. It can reshuffle the papers on its desks and presto, a billion has been added. Just like that.

When President Eisenhower was leaving office at the end of his second term he warned that this could wreck the nation, because spenders would become the sole means of supporting a money-hungry armaments industry that wouldn't stand for cutbacks.

Only a few days ago, Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, the atomic submarine expert, criticized purveyors of military hardware for alleged profiteering. This also is part of the background for the taxpayers' article of faith that billions could be taken away from the Department of Defense as handily as they were added on and national defense would be none the poorer. Profiteering could be eliminated.

IF IT TURNS out that President Johnson also clings to this point of view and is not cowed by military spenders who never have enough, a budget miracle could be in the making. Secretary of Defense McNamara could balance it singlehanded.

He could lop off another billion next week — $2 billion subtracted from $52 billion — 3.864 per cent. The rest of us do it all the time. He could take off a billion a week until the budget was balanced.

Snow Squawkers

By Truman Twill

I've never got used to snow squawkers. They're the featherbrains who get sore because all highways, streets, intersections and sidewalks aren't cleared of snow instantly.

They blast negligent public officials and their no-account employes for not removing all snowdrifts simultaneously on all roads.

They point accusing fingers at public authority for not having all downtown streets and all residential thoroughfares swept clean in a matter of hours.

They demand a full-dress investigation of somebody's criminal negligence if their cars slide into a ditch or a little snow gets inside their galoshes.

I've never got used to the squawkers. I quit trying to understand them long ago.

Some of them don't clean their own sidewalks. They wouldn't lift a finger to help another motorist in distress if it was their mother.

They are not infrequently public-de-damned characters who shovel sidewalk snow into the street where somebody else can worry about getting rid of it, then whimper because they cannot pull up to the curb.

IF IT'S slippery, they spin their wheels and blame someone else. They don't have so much as a bucket of sand to help themselves, but they expect road crews to sprinkle sand and salt on hundreds of miles of highways instantaneously.

They pay no attention to the condition of their car, but when cold weather catches them with a weak battery and beat-up plugs they weep and wail if the rescue squad doesn't show up in 15 minutes.

They know no more about operating an automobile in winter than an Eskimo knows about sponge-diving, yet they blame every mishap on circumstances beyond their control.

The more I think about snow squawkers, the less I think it would be worthwhile to try to understand them. They were born to squawk.

AND AS FAR as snow is concerned, it behooves us all to be philosophical about what it does to people. They can get as crazy from the snow as they get from the heat.

There's only one sensible way to cope with snow — live with it on its terms. With patience, it will go away. It can be taken away, in some situations. But not instantaneously.

Don't fight snow. Live with it. Nothing is so important it's worth getting stuck for.

Let the snow squawkers squawk if it gives them pleasure. The rest of us will settle for being snowbound — quietly, resignedly, contentedly. And there won't be a peep out of us.

Odd Facts

Hail storms can be deadly to the unprotected man. For example, a hailstone of three or four inches in diameter (not uncommon) can weigh up to a pound and fall at speeds of from 90 to 110 miles an hour. The effect of being hit by one of these would be much worse than being hit by the fastest baseball pitched.

More and more American parents are looking "up" to their sons and daughters. According to latest estimate, the rising generation is "rising" at least one inch taller than Mom and Pop.

According to latest estimates, our earth's supply of petroleum and natural gas will be 80 per cent depleted in 80 years.

Too Many Pocahontases!

A Case Of Political Quackery

By Raymond Moley

It's unfortunate that before the Ecumenical Council completed its deliberations, it did not add an eighth sin to the seven which as a boy I was required to memorize from my catechism. This is, according to Webster, "the practices and pretensions of a quack"; a quack being a "pretender" to medical skill which is not there.

The medical profession has spoken and acted against quacks since the days of Hippocrates.

Quackery is an especially cruel offense against innocent fellow beings. In practice it offers the promise, for profit of course, to afflicted individuals of a "cure" through means that cannot be justified by scientific tests or experience. While the victim is using the supposed remedy, he is neglecting methods of treatment which are not spectacular but are genuine and helpful.

IN EVERY legitimate organization dedicated to conquering one or another of the diseases that afflict the human race, the utmost care is taken to excite nothing but rational hopes of relief.

Politics, as we all know, has no such ethical bars against raising false expectations. Promises are made which under rational examination prove to be impossible of fulfillment. For the most part, the cynicism of the public toward political promises is a measurable protection against the danger of false hopes. But the fact is that some will believe in nostrums.

It's in the general realm of this unfortunate practice that the Johnson administration has promulgated the idea that plans have been made to abolish poverty in the United States. Unfortunately, many members of the press, including some widely read and widely heard commentators, perhaps because this is an interim when news is so scarce, have fallen for this old gag.

IT'S OLD because Julius Caesar, a consummate demagogue, won his imperial way in Roman politics by feeding the multitude out of the riches he purloined from the provinces he conquered and out of the riches of the patricians he killed and robbed. For a while the beneficiaries of Caesar's largesse had a wonderful time.

But poverty remained, and the Roman character deteriorated while Caesar's successors wallowed in gaudy luxury.

Ultimately, those deluded people were conquered by the sturdy minions of the provinces the Caesars had conquered.

I regard with enthusiasm the fact that because of our economic growth, wise philanthropy, and the humane actions of our government the well-being of Americans has risen spectacularly in the past century. And the end of improvement is not yet, if we avoid political nostrums.

THE PROMISE of extinguishing poverty is, however, presented as something new, a discovery by a political regime which claims that it, and it alone, has a heart and had discovered humane virtue.

We are told that because one-third (some say one-fourth) of our families have an income of less than $3,000 a year, they are poor.

Those statistics and the inferences they convey are pulled out of the air. Many families with such incomes are living comfortably. They do not call themselves poor. In alleviating needs we must consider individual cases.

The political motivations of this "new" proposal to abolish poverty will be clear when the budget is submitted this month. Faced by the spending of something more than $100 billion, this administration cannot cut welfare programs already in existence.

THAT WOULD BE fatal in an election year. So in submitting a long list of requests, someone thought up and President Johnson suggested the idea of packaging all these with a nice and alluring generality, "the abolition of poverty." Why? Everybody wants that. But Americans should realize that the coming program is merely "the same, but more."

Johnson's Problems

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

President Johnson, up against two tests since he took office, has worked on one from the beginning and starts in earnest on his second one Tuesday. His destiny is interlocked with both of them.

The first—how to keep himself in the public eye and mind, favorably, to get elected next November. President Kennedy had almost three years to do this. Johnson has less than a year. He has been working overtime at it.

The second—how to get work out of the Congress. It has been criticized for laziness and stalling. It is perhaps the most criticized Congress in this century. It shows not much sign of embarrassment.

He will help himself politically by staying in public view with statements, pronouncements, programs and camera appearances. He will hurt himself politically if he can't get his programs through Congress.

No wonder, if numbers are the yardstick. In the House his Democrats outnumber Republicans 256 to 178 and in the Senate 67 to 33. But at this time in American politics and history the numbers are part of a myth.

The myth is that there are only two political parties. Actually, there are several, although all huddle under the test of one party or the other. Each is made up of liberals, conservatives and reactionaries.

For this reason—because the various groups shift and team up, ignoring party labels on specific issues — presidential programs often get ignored or slaughtered.

It is ironic that the more successful a president is—say in foreign affairs, in guiding the economy to prosperity, in giving the people through his leadership a sense of safety and well-being—the less he'll get from Congress.

The reason: Congress seems to have reached a point where it is reluctant to act unless there is a crisis or unless it is under great public pressure in some particular moment of public need.

But when things are going well, in the fields outside Congress, the less action can be expected. That's about the best explanation that can be offered for congressional delay on a tax cut and civil rights in 1963.

This year being an election year there will be a special incentive for both House and Senate to do more than last year so those seeking re-election can point to something when they go to the voters next November.

It is this psychology of an election year which may be Johnson's greatest help in trying to get his programs through, programs which will be basically Kennedy's programs, unless Johnson adds new ones in his State of the Union message this week.

But the election pressures alone won't mean success for Johnson, not in a Congress with such divisions in attitudes as this one, plus the yearly wheeling and dealing on issues.

Since Johnson is not as placid a man as Kennedy—at least on the surface—the chances look good that he may get tough, if Congress frustrates him, and get into fights. Fights, in turn, might hurt him in the public eye.

'Police State,' D.C.

By David Lawrence

Housing Law Stirs Speculation

Maybe the news ought to be hushed up, though Moscow would soon learn the truth anyhow, namely, that within the last three days a form of "police state" has been established in the District of Columbia.

The capital of the United States is supposed to be governed by laws passed by Congress. The three commissioners are appointed by the president, but they have no authority to write laws. They nevertheless have promulgated a "law" which imposes fines and jail sentences on any citizen—whether he be a property owner or a real estate salesman or in the real estate business—who refuses or fails to sell or rent "housing accommodations" to "any person because of the race, color, religion or national origin of such person."

Almost all of the states of the Union have not gone that far. Indeed, the Supreme Court of the United States in 1948 upheld the right of citizens not only collectively but individually to dispose of their property to whomever they pleased and to select a purchaser by any process of choice they cared to exercise.

The Supreme Court, in this case—known as Hurd V. Hodge—declared that, while a group of citizens in Washington, D.C., might enter into an agreement not to sell their property to certain purchasers, such an agreement could not be enforced in the courts or any dissenting signatory.

NOWHERE in the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are local officials, but they rarely do anything of great importance without the guidance of the White House. The late President Kennedy favored the issuance of an order forbidding any racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing in the District, but the order was held in abeyance.

Congressional committees expressed their disapproval and warned against action by the commissioners. There is no information available as to whether President Johnson was consulted by the commissioners before they announced that on Jan. 20 the new "law" will become effective.

The net effect of this development is to give support to the argument that "the end justifies the means." In the absence of action by Congress, the district commissioners went ahead anyhow. President Johnson will soon have to disclose whether he is in favor of the step taken by the district officials.

The text of the order issued by the commissioners says that "the police regulations of the District of Columbia" are to be considered as amended and that the action has been rendered necessary because, among other things, there is a "clear relationship between poor housing conditions and the health and comfort of the occupants, and the effects of such conditions also constitute a danger to the property of both whites and Negroes."

CONGRESS 72 years ago gave the commissioners the right to make "police regulations" primarily to preserve order but nothing was said about the right of individuals under the Constitution to dispose of their property in any way they wish.

The Washington Star says editorially:

"Finally, the mere existence of the district ordinance is bound to affect thinking in the suburbs to some extent. And in the final analysis, this may be the most important effect of all. For despite the injustices which no doubt exist within the district, the goal of providing more and better housing for Negroes will not be fully realized until the barriers also are relaxed to a greater degree beyond the city limits."

But the nearby states of Maryland and Virginia have not passed any law interfering with the rights of citizens to use their own discretion in whatever sales of their property they may wish to make, nor is there any statute before Congress which goes that far.

The Washington Post in an editorial says:

"No one can expect this new law to have a sudden and radical effect upon Washington's overpriced housing market for Negroes. The uniformly white neighborhoods in the city are usually the expensive ones, and the ordinance cannot breach economic segregation."

SUCH A PREDICTION now is surrounded by doubt. For if the district commissioners can pass a "law" as an amendment to "police regulations" demanding that citizens dispose of their property in accordance with the dictates of the commissioners, then there is no reason why economic help cannot be demanded by citizens who cannot afford adequate housing and who would be assisted through taxpayers' money made available for that purpose.

The district commissioners cannot, of course, disburse public funds on their own initiative. They must have a law of Congress behind them, and it seems unlikely that Congress would appropriate money to subsidize residents of the district so that individuals with low incomes may enjoy more adequate housing in the better sections of the city, where most of the government officials reside.

A majority of the residents in the City of Washington now are Negroes, and there are demands for "home rule." If this comes, the district officials would then have control of the disbursement of all tax receipts and would be in a position to bring about "economic integration"—which, theoretically at least, it might be argued, would be just another form of equal rights.

Porch Damaged When Car Skids

The porch and steps of a home were damaged Sunday night at 7:04 when an auto skidded out of control as the driver turned off the Freeway onto Dresden Ave., police reported. It was one of eight weekend crashes in East Liverpool.

The 1961 model auto of Robert Temple, 26, of Canton struck a home at 1855 Dresden Ave., owned by Cary Merrill, officers said. In addition to damaging the porch and steps, the auto hit two pine trees on the Merrill property, police said.

Temple told police his car skidded on icy pavement as he made the right - angle turn, causing him to lose control and hit the house. The collision damaged the front and both sides of the car.

A 31-YEAR-OLD man was injured and his car was demolished when it skidded off Park Way Sunday at 5:30 p. m. and went over an embankment, police said.

Floyd Edwin Swiger of Park Way told officers he was driving about 15 miles an hour on icy pavement when his car suddenly changed to a lower gear. The auto skidded and went over the hillside about 1,000 feet from Pennsylvania Ave., he said.

Richard Hall, 49, of Maple Ln., Calcutta, escaped with an abrasion below the left eye when his 1957 model sports car ran into guard rails along the Freeway Sunday at 8:36 p. m., police said.

THE COLLISION damaged the entire left front and windshield of the car and damaged 12 feet of the guard rail, including three posts, police said. Hall told officers he apparently fell asleep.

Police said he was treated at the hospital.

No one was injured in a collision at Armstrong Ln. and a driveway leading out of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church property Sunday at 12:11 p. m., police said.

The mishap involved a 1959 model station wagon driven by James B. Patterson, 33, of 2607 St. Clair Ave. and a 1957 model two-door sedan operated by Pauline Smiley, 31, of 936 Dresden Ave., officers said.

PATTERSON was driving east on Armstrong Ln. and the woman was pulling from the driveway, police said. The woman said her vision was blocked partially by a huge tree and that snow and ice on the pavement prevented her from stopping in time.

A collision Sunday at 12:22 p. m. at E. 3rd and College Sts. involved a 1961 model tractor - trailer driven by Daniel Suoboda, 32, of Milwaukee and a 1958 car operated by Carl Reaser, 62, of 335 Carolina Ave., Chester, police said.

TWO CARS were damaged in a collision Saturday at 5:45 a.m. on Harvey Ave., officers said.

A 1960 convertible driven by Richard F. Andrews Jr., 19, of Shadyside Ave. hit a parked sedan owned by Charles Sprout, 678 Lincoln Ave., officers said.

Andrews told police he was attempting to pass another car when the unidentified motorist suddenly pulled in front of him. He said he applied his brakes and his car slid on icy pavement and hit the Sprout car.

A 1959 sedan driven by Raymond J. Satow, 40, of 916 Orchard Grove Ave. and a 1955 model tractor - trailer operated by James Greenawalt, 33, of Jamestown, N. Y., were involved in a collision Saturday at 1:50 p. m. on W. 8th St. at Lisbon St., police said.

A mishap Satuday at 11:07 a. m. on Broadway near Slygo Alley involved a 1957 sedan driven by Ernest P. Stewart, 45, of 1228 Chaffin St. and a 1962 sedan operated by Theodore F. Scheffer, 79, of 1031 Ambrose Ave., police said.

Stewart said he was backing from a parking space and did not see Scheffer's car, which was halted in a line of traffic.

The mishap damaged the right front fender of Scheffer's car. There was no damage to the Stewart auto, police said.

Earl E. Cross, 19, of 211 Walnut St. was fined $15 and costs by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff as the aftermath of a skidding accident this morning on St. George St.

Cross pleaded guilty of a reckless driving charge accusing him of traveling 30 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone on St. George St. "when the street was slippery and in a hazardous condition."

Police said Cross was headed east on St. George St. when his car began skidding and he slid about 70 feet before hitting the parked station wagon of Joseph Powell, 908 St. George St. The mishap occurred shortly before 8.

Hancock, WVU Units Air Plans On Home For Aged

The West Virginia University Medical Center staff exchanged ideas with the Hancock County Planning Commission Saturday in Morgantown on the commission's plans to build a home for the aged in Hancock.

Representing the commission were Ray Shaw, an architect and second vice president; Miss Callie Tsapis, legal advisor; Arthur Ciervo, assistant secretary, and Michael Sinicropi, a member.

Ciervo said the Medical Center officials offered suggestions on the architect's plans for the $500,000 combined apartment building - nursing home project. Technical advice also was offered, he added.

"They feel it is a long overdue project," Ciervo said.

The commission has endorsed a proposal to build facilities that would provide housing, nursing care, therapy and outpatient service to elderly Hancock County residents.

A meeting will be held within the next week with officials of Weirton General Hospital who have expressed an interest in the project .

The WVU Medical Center is interested from the standpoint of an opportunity to study chronic illnesses among the aged.

A location for the proposed nursing home has not been decided, but will probably be announced at the commission's next meeting Jan. 16 in the Courthouse in New Cumberland.

Officers will be elected for 1964. Norman D. Ferrari is president.

LISBON — Miss Bonnie Sue Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry King Lawson of Hohenwald, Tenn., became the bride of Airman 2C Ralph Conkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rice of W. Washington St. Lisbon Saturday evening Dec. 28, at 7:30 o'clock.

The double - ring ceremony was performed by candlelight at the Church of Christ at Hohenwald by the Rev. Fredrick Kittrell before the altar setting of red and white poinsettias with seven - branch candlabra on either side.

Nuptial music included "I Love You Truly," "The Lord's Prayer" and the wedding march.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a white lace - over satin bouffant street - length gown. Fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and long, tapered sleeves, it was highlighted by iridescent sequins.

Miss Evelyn Lawson was maid of honor for her sister and her cousin, Miss Roselynn Spears, was flower girl. Their red velveteen street - length dresses featured a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt. A matching headdress of petals held their flutter veils and each carried white muffs highlighted by red carnations.

Tom Conkle of Lisbon served his brother as best man. The bride's brothers, William Lawson and James Lawson, were ushers and Terry Lawson was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a green wool dress with brown accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue silk dress with black accessories, and their corsages were of white carnations.

The home of the bride's parents, festive with holiday decorations, was the setting for the reception following the ceremony. White wedding bells accented the bride's table, laid in white and white net, and centered by a four-tier wedding cake and white candelabra.

The bride is a graduate of Lewis County High School in Hohenwald and the Nashville School of Cosmetology and has been employed at Chester's Beauty Salon at Nashville.

A 1960 graduate of David Anderson High School, the bridegroom enlisted in the Air Force and recently returned from 18 months duty on Okinawa.

The Rev. and Mrs. Kittrell were hosts for a rehearsal party for the bridal attendants the evening of Dec. 27.

City Motorist Gets Warning

A city motorist was warned his license will be suspended if he is haled into Municipal Court again this year after being fined today on a reckless driving charge.

The warning and a fine of $15 and costs was handed Arthur K. Smith, 1010 Church St., who pleaded guilty when he appeared before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Smith was cited at 12:37 a. m. today by police, who said he drove south on Dresden Ave. and Market St. at a high rate of speed and made a left turn from Market onto E. 3rd St. with his tires squealing.

In warning Smith that his license will be suspended, Judge Chertoff said his only reason for not suspending it this time was that the defendant had no other means of reaching work.

A hearing for Robert H. Williams, 1057 Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville, was continued to Jan. 14 after Williams informed the court he had passed the physical examination but has not taken a test for a driver's license.

Williams had pleaded guilty Dec. 23 to a charge of driving without an operator's permit, but sentencing was delayed until today to permit him to obtain a license. He was cited Dec. 21 by city police.

Herman Glenn Dingess, 848 St. George St., is scheduled for a hearing at 9 a. m. Thursday on a charge of driving without an operator's permit. Dingess was cited at 2:45 a. m. New Year's Day on the Chester Bridge by the State Highway Patrol after an accident.

LISBON — Miss Bonnie Sue Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry King Lawson of Hohenwald, Tenn., became the bride of Airman 2C Ralph Conkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rice of W. Washington St. Lisbon Saturday evening Dec. 28, at 7:30 o'clock.

The double - ring ceremony was performed by candlelight at the Church of Christ at Hohenwald by the Rev. Fredrick Kittrell before the altar setting of red and white poinsettias with seven - branch candlabra on either side.

Nuptial music included "I Love You Truly," "The Lord's Prayer" and the wedding march.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a white lace - over satin bouffant street - length gown. Fashioned with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline and long, tapered sleeves, it was highlighted by iridescent sequins.

Miss Evelyn Lawson was maid of honor for her sister and her cousin, Miss Roselynn Spears, was flower girl. Their red velveteen street - length dresses featured a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt. A matching headdress of petals held their flutter veils and each carried white muffs highlighted by red carnations.

Tom Conkle of Lisbon served his brother as best man. The bride's brothers, William Lawson and James Lawson, were ushers and Terry Lawson was ring bearer.

The bride's mother chose a green wool dress with brown accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue silk dress with black accessories, and their corsages were of white carnations.

The home of the bride's parents, festive with holiday decorations, was the setting for the reception following the ceremony. White wedding bells accented the bride's table, laid in white and white net, and centered by a four-tier wedding cake and white candelabra.

The bride is a graduate of Lewis County High School in Hohenwald and the Nashville School of Cosmetology and has been employed at Chester's Beauty Salon at Nashville.

A 1960 graduate of David Anderson High School, the bridegroom enlisted in the Air Force and recently returned from 18 months duty on Okinawa.

The Rev. and Mrs. Kittrell were hosts for a rehearsal party for the bridal attendants the evening of Dec. 27.

They are visiting his parents and after Jan. 25 will reside near George Air Force Base, Calif., until he is discharged from the service in October.

City Motorist Gets Warning

A city motorist was warned his license will be suspended if he is haled into Municipal Court again this year after being fined today on a reckless driving charge.

The warning and a fine of $15 and costs was handed Arthur K. Smith, 1010 Church St., who pleaded guilty when he appeared before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Smith was cited at 12:37 a. m. today by police, who said he drove south on Dresden Ave. and Market St. at a high rate of speed and made a left turn from Market onto E. 3rd St. with his tires squealing.

In warning Smith that his license will be suspended, Judge Chertoff said his only reason for not suspending it this time was that the defendant had no other means of reaching work.

A hearing for Robert H. Williams, 1057 Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville, was continued to Jan. 14 after Williams informed the court he had passed the physical examination but has not taken a test for a driver's license.

Williams had pleaded guilty Dec. 23 to a charge of driving without an operator's permit, but sentencing was delayed until today to permit him to obtain a license. He was cited Dec. 21 by city police.

Herman Glenn Dingess, 848 St. George St., is scheduled for a hearing at 9 a. m. Thursday on a charge of driving without an operator's permit. Dingess was cited at 2:45 a. m. New Year's Day on the Chester Bridge by the State Highway Patrol after an accident.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever I read a letter in your column about middle-aged women having affairs with married men I have to smile.

I'm 33 and I've been having an affair with a married man for 12 years. This is not a large city and we go everywhere together. I wouldn't give him up for the world. He is kind, generous, handsome and treats me with respect and consideration. He hands over his uncashed paycheck every week.

No man, regardless of looks, wealth or social position could interest me. Nor could my lover be charmed away by another woman. He is the most important person in my life and I have dedicated myself to keeping him in love with me. I'm secure, content and at peace—because the man is my husband. — SET FOR LIFE.

Dear Set: Thank you for an unusual letter. Any woman who writes, "He is the most important person in my life and I have dedicated myself to keeping him in love with me," can't miss.

Mental Cripples

Dear Ann: You visited our city recently and in the newspaper write-up about you it was noted that you have a rare faculty for remembering names.

The inability to remember names has been a problem all my life and it has caused me a great deal of embarrassment. Do you have some sort of a secret system? If so, will you do a lot of people a big favor and pass it on? Thank you in advance for any help you can offer.—HOLES IN MY HEAD.

Dear Head: The chief reason people are unable to remember names is because they fail to get the name right when they are introduced. Make it a point to ASK that the name be repeated if you don't get it the first time. No one will be offended. It's flattering, in fact, because it indicates you're interested.

Use the name in your first sentence to that person and associate the name with something about the individual. For example, if the woman's name is Mrs. Bekin and she has a pointed nose (like a beak), you're home free. If the man's name is Mr. Tallman and he happens to be a shrimp, well — make a mental note that Mr. Tallman is not tall at all and that his name doesn't fit.

Deliver me from the mental cripple who makes no effort to remember a name then tries to excuse himself by saying, "but I never forget a face."

Domineering Relatives

Dear Ann: My husband and I moved back to this city after having left it as newlyweds 12 years ago. My mother and two sisters live here. They are "the problem."

The first week my mother and sisters virtually took over my house and family. I thought they were trying to be helpful but now I realize they are attempting to involve themselves in my daily life on a continuing basis.

They want my husband and me to visit them every evening or else they ask if they can come here. My mother and sisters have no friends and claim they don't need friends because they have each other.

I don't want that kind of a life. I find my relatives thoroughly boring and so does my husband. How can we free ourselves from them without creating resentment? — HOG TIED.

Dear Tied: Forget about working this out without resentment. It can't be done.

The only way to free yourself from the clutches of domineering relatives is to get busy with friends and activities. Tell your relatives when they call that you have plans for the evening. Before long they'll get the picture.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Vandals Blamed For 2 Ashtabula Bomb Incidents

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — The Ashtabula County Savings & Loan Co. and a drive-in store were bomb targets early today of what police believe were vandals. No injuries were reported.

The first blast occurred at the savings and loan office and shattered three big front windows. No attempt was made to enter the safe.

A short time later a bomb exploded in front of the drive-in store on South Main Street, damaging the front of the building.

Detectives said it appeared dynamite was used in both cases, although an investigation into the type of explosive charge continued. FBI agents were called in since the savings and loan company was involved.

One police investigator said vandals may have been responsible for the blasts and they may be linked to the long strike at the Ashtabula Molded Fiber Body Co.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edward A. Ellis, 42, woke up Sunday morning and heard someone prowling through his apartment. Wearing only his undershorts, Ellis chased the burglar into the street.

The robber dropped Ellis' wallet, hoping it would lure him to stop. It didn't.

The thief got to Biscayne Boulevard, one of Miami's main streets, and hailed a cab, with Ellis only a few steps behind.

Driver Henry Simpson, a retired police officer, calmly drove his passenger to the nearest squad car. Marion Anderson, 28, was charged with burglary.

At 12:20, the department was called to the home of Paul Ford, 207 N. Market St., when a furnace became overheated after the blower failed to turn on. There was no damage.

At 3:40, firemen called to the Elkton Auction parking lot when upholstering in a car belonging to Donald Rice, 440 W. Washington St., caught fire. Spectators were throwing snow on the smouldering blaze when firemen arrived and put it out. No estimate was given on damage. Firemen believe the fire was started by a cigarette.

Do-It-Yourself Craze Continues To Expand

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

At least once a year, somewhere, somebody makes a speech or writes a magazine article about a diminishing interest in what he calls the do-it-yourself fad.

Don't you believe it! More persons are making or fixing things these days than at any time in the past. And since a fad is something which excites only passing attention, you can hardly call something a fad which began in the 1930s, moved into high gear in the '40s and has been going strong ever since.

Do-it-yourself, indulged in by a small percentage of the population as far back as you care to go, really came into its own during the depression.

Everybody was searching for way to economize. And even though help could be obtained in those days for small fees, householders did it themselves solely for the purpose of saving money.

When things began to get prosperous in the '40s, the necessity to cut financial corners was no longer urgent, but another obstacle arose.

Most skilled workers were engaged in wartime activities of one sort or another, and it became difficult to get help at any price.

These days, a combination of factors has kept the average home owner doing - it - himself. He has learned the personal satisfaction of creating and fixing things.

And he has discovered, from sad experience, that he can't always get professional help when he needs it. Longer weekends and holidays, plus shorter workdays, have combined to make the professional inaccessible at odd hours except in major emergencies.

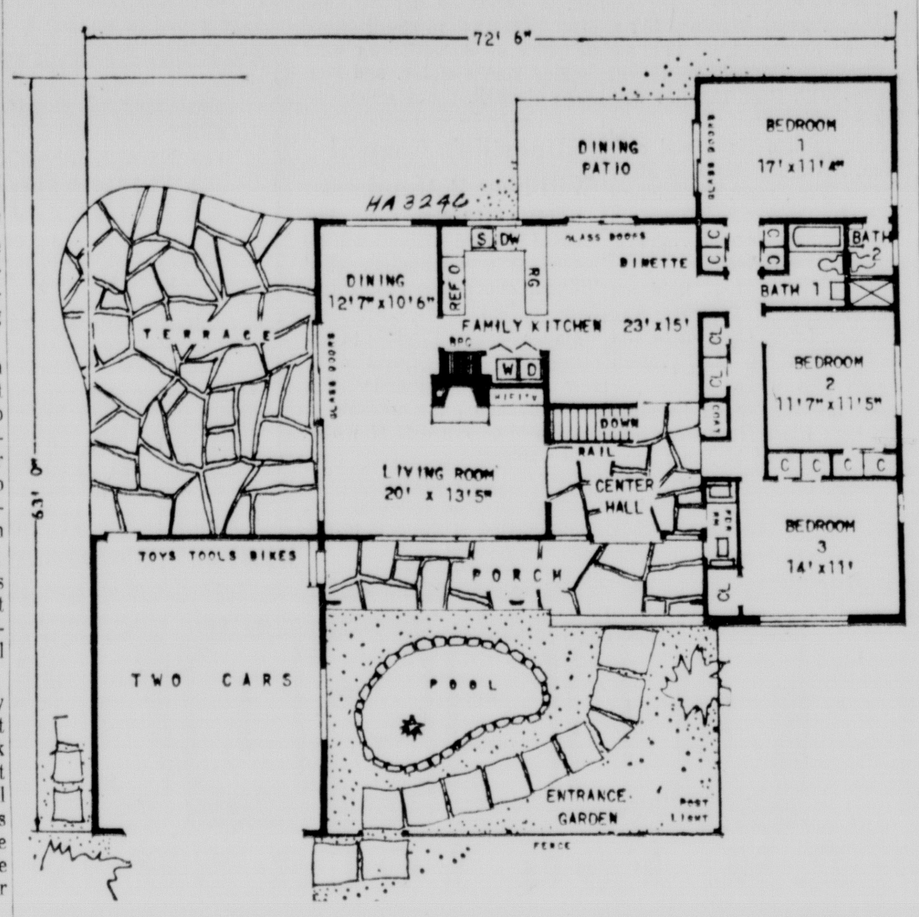
Also to be considered in this area is the fact that it isn't easy to get a plumber or electrician or carpenter for a small job.

The professionals may deny it, but you simply cannot get a workman to give you as quick service on a job that will cost $5 as you can on one that will cost $75. The skilled worker is usually a busy individual these days and he cannot spare the time to make a small repair at a small cost.

He has to charge for his traveling time, usually referred to as a service charge, and he may feel that you will resent paying for more than just the labor and materials. It isn't his fault; it's merely, as Jimmy Durante puts it, that "those are the conditions that prevail".

It's not difficult to figure out, therefore, why so many persons are doing so many repair tasks around the house.

Those who think do-it-yourself is slipping haven't talked to the manufacturers of materials and products used by the householder. They will all tell you—and show you figures to prove it—that the curve on the do-it-yourself chart is still going up.



WELCOME, says this ranch home's entrance garden, full width patio porch and flagstone center hall. There's a fireplace in the living room, and big windows on two sides. The kitchen has a barbecue fireplace. The house has three bedrooms and two baths, plus a tidy powder room off the entrance halls Square foot is 1,717 square feet. Architect for HA324C is Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 485th St., New York, N. Y. 10036.

Moving And Restoring Paintings Takes Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Our cultural fling is likely to create all sorts of new problems, such as how one transports paintings from one home to another.

Paintings can arrive in top-notch condition if properly packed whether moved in family car or moving van, says Miss Jean Volkmer, who restores paintings for the Museum of Modern Art in New York. But there is another thought — can you move them to the new dwelling?

Matisse's "Dance", which Miss Volkmer restored recently, does not fit into the museum's elevators. The 12½-by-8½-foot canvas must be carried up and down stairs. And it is heavy. In many homes stair landings are narrow, even for the smallest paintings to be moved safely, so it is a good idea to check a new home if paintings are valuable.

Miss Volkmer has just been involved in the movement of many paintings. Recently 153 were shipped to the National Gallery in Washington in three shipments.

She was on hand to make sure the paintings were still in good condition when they were unwrapped and to dust them with her four - inch badger hair brush, "better than cloths or feather dusters," she says.

"A LITTLE bump on the road can do a bit of damage to a painting that isn't packed and placed properly for the trip," she points out.

The museum uses the sandwich pack method as a rule—pads made of excelsior in wrapping paper or of foam rubber at the corners to cushion the painting. Fiberboard is put completely over the frame in front. "It is anchored with rope that must be snipped in six places to be removed," she says.

The foam rubber is sort of a triangle sleeve that was first noted on paintings arriving from Europe, Miss Volkmer says. A square is folded so that it is sealed over the ends and acts as a good shock absorber, whereas excelsior must be stapled to the frame.

When paintings are being moved from the wall, the time is excellent for cleaning and restoration. In the museum's case, paintings that may be the heart of a collection can't be moved just any time.

Modern paintings especially require professional cleaning, she points out. It is definitely not a job for amateurs.

"There are many solvents available but tests are necessary to know the paint. We work with the artists and know pretty much what to use. We often use water, but lots of paints dissolve in water. Then too, paintings take years to dry, even if one feels dry to the touch. There may be parts that are still responsive to solvents," she points out.

THAT'S ONE reason artists shouldn't varnish a canvas until it is about a year old. Varnish can combine with the paint, she says.

People shouldn't roll paintings to store them. That's what Matisse did to "Dance," and "paint cracked in it in a great number of places," she says.

"We gave it a wax lining, an additional canvas coated with a wax resin, an adhesive that penetrates cracks and paint film."

A fireplace is not good for paintings, something to remember if it is the only likely place for a work of art. Glass could be used over the painting, Miss Volkmer points out, but since some air space is required, glass could act as sort of a flue, and be even worse for the painting.

Books such as Carolyn Keck's "How to Take Care of Your Pictures," available at museums, make ideal references, Miss Volkmer points out.

Older paintings may be cleaned at home without too much risk. Though in Europe people use potatoes and breadcrumbs, "it probably takes a lot of doing," Miss Volkmer says.

At the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where paintings are older, a number of techniques are used for cleaning paintings, says Murray Pease, curator of the Technical Laboratory there.

An effective method for removal of superficial grime may be done with gasoline - type dry cleaning fluid applied with absorbent cotton or a soft brush, a tiny area at a time.

Or a cream - type good quality wax emulsion furniture polish may be used. If either technique is employed, the cleaner must be wiped off immediately.

He cautions against the homespun remedies, such as soap and household cleaners or hanging paintings near radiators.

"While heat itself is not harmful to paintings, dry heat of winter is. A uniform relative humidity of 50 per cent is the most desirable," he says.

"For minor or major repairs, use a museum-recommended professional restorer," Pease says.

Here Are Ways To Correct Any Door Trouble You Have

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

One of the most annoying defects to be found around the average house is door trouble. And there are several different types of it.

The most prevalent are the door that will not stay closed, the door that sags so that it scrapes the floor or carpet, the door that jams so that it cannot be closed tightly and the door that cannot be locked. All of these can be corrected, and usually without taking down the door.

The door that cannot be locked although it closes well enough and the door that will not stay closed are suffering from striking-plate trouble.

The flat metal plate set in the door jamb, and into which the tongue of the lock in the door is supposed to catch, has become slightly out of place. This can be caused by slight settling of the house or by warping of the door.

If you close the door almost all the way and line up the tongue with the square hole in the striking plate, you can see how the plate needs to be moved up or down or in or out so that the tongue will drop in where it belongs.

The door that scrapes along the floor or carpet when it is opened usually can be raised to clear them by taking the screws out of the lower hinge where it is fastened to the door jamb, slipping a piece of cardboard under the hinge and replacing the screws. This raises the outer lower edge of the door.

The door that jams does so because it has swollen or warped so that it cannot fit into the door opening. This is simply a sandpapering job, on the door edge. There will be plenty of marks on the door opening to show where a fraction of an inch needs to be taken off.

France Offers Funds, Arms To Cambodians

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—France has pledged military and economic aid to its former territory of Cambodia, filling some of the gap left by Cambodia's rejection of U.S. aid.

French Defense Minister Pierre Messmer, speaking at a dinner in his honor Sunday night, said the aid would include tanks, trucks and planes for the Cambodian armed forces and professors for schools.

Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, expressed grutitude that France has decided "to fulfill the role in Asia which its prestige and the present situation make appropriate."

Bulgarians Announce Ex-Envoy's Execution

LONDON (AP)—The Bulgarian News Agency has reported the execution of Ivan Asen Christof Georgiev, former Bulgarian envoy to the U.N. who confessed he sold military and economic secrets to the American Central Intelligence Agency for $200,000.

The prosecution claimed the envoy spent most of the money on mistresses, including some supplied by the CIA.

Georgiev went on trial in Sofia Dec. 26. He pleaded guilty to selling secrets to the CIA between 1956 and 1961 while serving as counselor on the Bulgarian U.N. delegation in New York and later as an official of various government agencies.

The news service said sentence was carried out after Georgiev's appeal for a pardon was denied. He was sentenced to die before a firing squad.

Ex-Colonel Dies

FLETCHER, N.C. (AP)—Lester Leland Lampert, 73, retired U.S. Army colonel, died Sunday after a short illness. Lampert, a graduate of West Point who served in both world wars, retired in 1946. He was born in Oshkosh, Wis., the son of the late Florian Lampert, former representative in Congress.

Railroad Treats Miami Students To 'Train Dance'

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Coming back to school after Christmas vacation was a lot more fun than leaving for the holidays, as far as several hundred Miami University students are concerned.

The railroad decided to make it up to the students on the way back for classes, which started today.

So when the train left Cleveland Sunday, it contained two extra cars—an empty baggage car for dancing to a four-piece jazz combo and a car loaded with inexpensive sandwiches, potato chips, milk and other refreshments.

The train arrived at 9:25 p.m., body seemed to mind after the merry trip. There was music and dancing all the way.

"It was a nice comfortable ride with that combo and the refreshments," said one student, Joe Novak of Mentor.

A NYC spokesman said the delay was caused by stops to pick up students at towns along the route across Ohio.

As far as the students were concerned, their transportation problems began after the NYC special stopped at the depot of this small Butler County town.

The depot is about three-fourths of a mile from the campus—and Oxford has few taxis.

Some university officials, faculty members and townspeople came to the rescue with cars.

Rep. Bolton Criticizes Sale Of Grain To Reds

CLEVELAND (AP)—"I don't believe in feeding the enemy," U.S. Rep. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio, told the Men's Club at Park Synagogue Sunday in voicing opposition to the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia. She said she also was opposed to President Johnson's plan to protect Russia's international credit.

"What should we back Russia's loans when they have no intention of repaying the $11 billion they owe us?" she asked.

Woman Plagued By Attentions Of Secret Admirer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus woman is a bit puzzled about the dubious favors of a secret admirer.

Laura Williams, 51, told police she received 10 telephone calls Sunday from an unidentified man, who she believes was responsible for sending two Fire Department squads, two taxicabs and the delivery of two pizzas to her home.

She said she started receiving calls from the man in October, received none last month and that they resumed again New Year's Day.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — James Jack Caldwell, 16, was reported in poor condition in the Ohio State Reformatory hospital here today with wounds he received in a stabbing incident Saturday.

Memorial Drive Eyed By Youngstown Jews

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A drive for funds to build a memorial in Israel to the late Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland has been started here.

Do-It-Yourself Craze Continues To Expand

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

At least once a year, somewhere, somebody makes a speech or writes a magazine article about a diminishing interest in what he calls the do-it-yourself fad.

Don't you believe it! More persons are making or fixing things these days than at any time in the past. And since a fad is something which excites only passing attention, you can hardly call something a fad which began in the 1930s, moved into high gear in the '40s and has been going strong ever since.

Do-it-yourself, indulged in by a small percentage of the population as far back as you care to go, really came into its own during the depression.

Everybody was searching for way to economize. And even though help could be obtained in those days for small fees, householders did it themselves solely for the purpose of saving money.

When things began to get prosperous in the '40s, the necessity to cut financial corners was no longer urgent, but another obstacle arose.

Most skilled workers were engaged in wartime activities of one sort or another, and it became difficult to get help at any price.

These days, a combination of factors has kept the average home owner doing - it - himself. He has learned the personal satisfaction of creating and fixing things.

And he has discovered, from sad experience, that he can't always get professional help when he needs it. Longer weekends and holidays, plus shorter workdays, have combined to make the professional inaccessible at odd hours except in major emergencies.

Also to be considered in this area is the fact that it isn't easy to get a plumber or electrician or carpenter for a small job.

The professionals may deny it, but you simply cannot get a workman to give you as quick service on a job that will cost $5 as you can on one that will cost $75. The skilled worker is usually a busy individual these days and he cannot spare the time to make a small repair at a small cost.

He has to charge for his traveling time, usually referred to as a service charge, and he may feel that you will resent paying for more than just the labor and materials. It isn't his fault; it's merely, as Jimmy Durante puts it, that "those are the conditions that prevail".

It's not difficult to figure out, therefore, why so many persons are doing so many repair tasks around the house.

Those who think do-it-yourself is slipping haven't talked to the manufacturers of materials and products used by the householder. They will all tell you—and show you figures to prove it—that the curve on the do-it-yourself chart is still going up.

Moving And Restoring Paintings Takes Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Our cultural fling is likely to create all sorts of new problems, such as how one transports paintings from one home to another.

Paintings can arrive in top-notch condition if properly packed whether moved in family car or moving van, says Miss Jean Volkmer, who restores paintings for the Museum of Modern Art in New York. But there is another thought — can you move them to the new dwelling?

Matisse's "Dance", which Miss Volkmer restored recently, does not fit into the museum's elevators. The 12½-by-8½-foot canvas must be carried up and down stairs. And it is heavy. In many homes stair landings are narrow, even for the smallest paintings to be moved safely, so it is a good idea to check a new home if paintings are valuable.

Miss Volkmer has just been involved in the movement of many paintings. Recently 153 were shipped to the National Gallery in Washington in three shipments.

She was on hand to make sure the paintings were still in good condition when they were unwrapped and to dust them with her four - inch badger hair brush, "better than cloths or feather dusters," she says.

"A LITTLE bump on the road can do a bit of damage to a painting that isn't packed and placed properly for the trip," she points out.

The museum uses the sandwich pack method as a rule—pads made of excelsior in wrapping paper or of foam rubber at the corners to cushion the painting. Fiberboard is put completely over the frame in front. "It is anchored with rope that must be snipped in six places to be removed," she says.

The foam rubber is sort of a triangle sleeve that was first noted on paintings arriving from Europe, Miss Volkmer says. A square is folded so that it is sealed over the ends and acts as a good shock absorber, whereas excelsior must be stapled to the frame.

When paintings are being moved from the wall, the time is excellent for cleaning and restoration. In the museum's case, paintings that may be the heart of a collection can't be moved just any time.

Modern paintings especially require professional cleaning, she points out. It is definitely not a job for amateurs.

"There are many solvents available but tests are necessary to know the paint. We work with the artists and know pretty much what to use. We often use water, but lots of paints dissolve in water. Then too, paintings take years to dry, even if one feels dry to the touch. There may be parts that are still responsive to solvents," she points out.

THAT'S ONE reason artists shouldn't varnish a canvas until it is about a year old. Varnish can combine with the paint, she says.

People shouldn't roll paintings to store them. That's what Matisse did to "Dance," and "paint cracked in it in a great number of places," she says.

"We gave it a wax lining, an additional canvas coated with a wax resin, an adhesive that penetrates cracks and paint film."

A fireplace is not good for paintings, something to remember if it is the only likely place for a work of art. Glass could be used over the painting, Miss Volkmer points out, but since some air space is required, glass could act as sort of a flue, and be even worse for the painting.

Books such as Carolyn Keck's "How to Take Care of Your Pictures," available at museums, make ideal references, Miss Volkmer points out.

Older paintings may be cleaned at home without too much risk. Though in Europe people use potatoes and breadcrumbs, "it probably takes a lot of doing," Miss Volkmer says.

At the Metropolitan Museum of Art, where paintings are older, a number of techniques are used for cleaning paintings, says Murray Pease, curator of the Technical Laboratory there.

An effective method for removal of superficial grime may be done with gasoline - type dry cleaning fluid applied with absorbent cotton or a soft brush, a tiny area at a time.

Or a cream - type good quality wax emulsion furniture polish may be used. If either technique is employed, the cleaner must be wiped off immediately.

He cautions against the homespun remedies, such as soap and household cleaners or hanging paintings near radiators.

"While heat itself is not harmful to paintings, dry heat of winter is. A uniform relative humidity of 50 per cent is the most desirable," he says.

"For minor or major repairs, use a museum-recommended professional restorer," Pease says.

Here Are Ways To Correct Any Door Trouble You Have

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

One of the most annoying defects to be found around the average house is door trouble. And there are several different types of it.

The most prevalent are the door that will not stay closed, the door that sags so that it scrapes the floor or carpet, the door that jams so that it cannot be closed tightly and the door that cannot be locked. All of these can be corrected, and usually without taking down the door.

The door that cannot be locked although it closes well enough and the door that will not stay closed are suffering from striking-plate trouble.

The flat metal plate set in the door jamb, and into which the tongue of the lock in the door is supposed to catch, has become slightly out of place. This can be caused by slight settling of the house or by warping of the door.

If you close the door almost all the way and line up the tongue with the square hole in the striking plate, you can see how the plate needs to be moved up or down or in or out so that the tongue will drop in where it belongs.

The door that scrapes along the floor or carpet when it is opened usually can be raised to clear them by taking the screws out of the lower hinge where it is fastened to the door jamb, slipping a piece of cardboard under the hinge and replacing the screws. This raises the outer lower edge of the door.

The door that jams does so because it has swollen or warped so that it cannot fit into the door opening. This is simply a sandpapering job, on the door edge. There will be plenty of marks on the door opening to show where a fraction of an inch needs to be taken off.

Bulgarians Announce Ex-Envoy's Execution

LONDON (AP)—The Bulgarian News Agency has reported the execution of Ivan Asen Christof Georgiev, former Bulgarian envoy to the U.N. who confessed he sold military and economic secrets to the American Central Intelligence Agency for $200,000.

The prosecution claimed the envoy spent most of the money on mistresses, including some supplied by the CIA.

Georgiev went on trial in Sofia Dec. 26. He pleaded guilty to selling secrets to the CIA between 1956 and 1961 while serving as counselor on the Bulgarian U.N. delegation in New York and later as an official of various government agencies.

The news service said sentence was carried out after Georgiev's appeal for a pardon was denied. He was sentenced to die before a firing squad.

Railroad Treats Miami Students To 'Train Dance'

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Coming back to school after Christmas vacation was a lot more fun than leaving for the holidays, as far as several hundred Miami University students are concerned.

The railroad decided to make it up to the students on the way back for classes, which started today.

So when the train left Cleveland Sunday, it contained two extra cars—an empty baggage car for dancing to a four-piece jazz combo and a car loaded with inexpensive sandwiches, potato chips, milk and other refreshments.

The train arrived at 9:25 p.m., body seemed to mind after the merry trip. There was music and dancing all the way.

"It was a nice comfortable ride with that combo and the refreshments," said one student, Joe Novak of Mentor.

A NYC spokesman said the delay was caused by stops to pick up students at towns along the route across Ohio.

As far as the students were concerned, their transportation problems began after the NYC special stopped at the depot of this small Butler County town.

The depot is about three-fourths of a mile from the campus—and Oxford has few taxis.

Some university officials, faculty members and townspeople came to the rescue with cars.

She said she started receiving calls from the man in October, received none last month and that they resumed again New Year's Day.

Built-Ins Use Inches While Saving Yards

PORTLAND, Ore.—When two children must share an average-size bedroom, some space juggling is involved. Here's where smart parents take a look at built-ins versus standard furniture.

Built-in storage units have several advantages. Generally, they offer more actual storage space because a built-in can be tailored to make use of otherwise wasted inches in corners, under windows and high on walls. Drawer and cabinet units also can be designed to exceed standard dimensions to give more depth or length where needed for contents.

Another advantage is that built-ins give the small bedroom architectural quality by coordinating lines and dimensions. Frequently a corresponding number of furniture pieces will create a cluttered or overcrowded look, while the built-ins produce a spacious appearance because they are actually part of the room.

High-quality lumber such as fir also adds to the appearance factor of built-ins and provides the durability needed for children's rooms. For low upkeep, fir storage units should be finished with clear matte lacquer or varnish which doesn't show soil or fingermarks. Painted surfaces are also popular, however, and are often used to highlight a color scheme.

Studio coaches are another space-saving device for children's rooms. They look less massive than beds and have the added advantage of being set against walls so that space in the center of the room is left free. A room for two younsters can be handsomely arranged with a pair of studio couches set at right angles to each other, sharing a corner table as combination headboard and nightstand. The corner table also can be designed to provide storage for extra bed linens and pillows.

The other two walls of the room can be designed with built-ins for clothing, books and study space. A good place for clothing drawers is right under the window. This unit, if low, also can work as a window seat. Corners will take floor-to-ceiling shelf units and one corner installation can include a desk, perhaps wall hung.

Minimum closets also can undergo a little remodeling to increase useability. Often just rearranging the hanging rods will double space.

EVEN A SMALL ROOM can give a child adequate space for study, play and sleep. This arrangement puts studio couches against two walls, book shelves in a corner, and wardrobe drawers under a window seat. Study desk, additional drawers and open shelves are hung on fourth wall, adjacent to closet. Easily worked Douglas fir lumber can be tailored to make use of every inch available.

Colorful Paint Can Change Basement Into Glamor Spot

You can change your basement into a bright family or play room with a few gallons of colorful, quick - drying quality paint and a few hours of work in which every family member can join. Your local reputable paint dealer can provide you with the quality paint.

Since almost all basement walls contain cement in one form or another, you must use a paint that will not be affected by the alkali present in cement which is not compatible with ordinary oil paint. In addition to selecting the right paint, proper surface preparation and correct application are also necessary for a successful job, points out the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

There are a number of different quality paints that are suitable for basement walls. Easiest to use are the latex paints made for use on masonry; they are quick-drying and the painting tools are easy to clean afterward. Highly regarded, too, are portland cement paints, swimming pool paints and reinforced masonry paints. For a tile-like finish on concrete block, there are also some epoxy coatings.

After selecting your color and type of paint, the next step is to prepare the surface properly. In most instances, this consists only of removing dirt, dust and loose or crumbly material with a wire brush. Grease or oil should be wiped away with paint thinner or detergent. Be sure to patch or caulk all cracks and holes. A crumbly surface may need a coat of special binding conditioner.

You don't have to wait for the walls to dry after washing if you use the latex paints. But, be sure to prime any bare metal in the walls with an anti-corrosive metal primer first. After this has dried, apply the paint with brush, roller or spray.

Portland cement paints are popular because they are long-lasting and because they are the only paints which will prevent moisture under low pressure from coming through the walls. No interior coating will hold back water under pressure, however.

The only way to keep permeable basement walls dry is to apply a heavy coat of asphalt to the outside of the walls before back-filling; this should, of course, be done while the house is being built. In addition, the earth near the foundation should be graded for easy run-off of rain water.

Portland cement paints cannot be used over surfaces that have been previously painted with anything except portland cement paint. The walls must be kept wet while the cement paint is curing. Once it has dried, it provides a long-lasting coating that bonds with the very walls.

Generally light colors are chosen for basement walls to obtain a maximum amount of light reflection. Bright accent colors will add a lively touch.

On basement floors use floor enamels meant for use on concrete. They are formulated to withstand the abrasion of shoes.

Knotty Pine Or Plywood?

Question: We have started installing the studding in our attic, which we plan to make into two bedrooms.

We had about decided on using knotty pine panels for the walls, but recently saw another attic finished with plywood and can't quite make up our minds. Can you tell us which is cheaper?

Answer: No — not without knowing the grade of knotty pine and the kind of plywood. You can get some types of plywood at a cheaper price than knotty pine panels, but others—notably, the hardwoods — are more expensive. Your decision should be based on which material you think will best suit your purpose. You can then buy that kind of material in the price range which fits your pocketbook.

Actually, you would have been wiser to make the choice before you began putting up the framework. If, for instance, you are using quarter-inch plywood, you can get by without putting up furring strips, placing the 4-by-8 sheets directly across the studding. This will only work if you do a careful job in lining up the studs.

If you are using knotty pine panels of regular or random widths, you will have to put horizontal furring strips across the studding and then attach the panels to the furring strips.

In the latter event, the studs should be 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches from the center of one stud to the next. When sturdy plywood sheets are being used, you can often place the studs 24 inches apart on center. One other point: as a compromise, you might try plywood sheets with knotty pine facing.

Ingot Figures May Be High During 1964

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel Magazine predicted today that 1964 steel ingot output in the nation's mills will be 112 million tons, fourth highest production year on record.

The national metalworking weekly journal said, however, its forecast hinged on whether (1) predictions of higher construction activity and record spending for capital equipment materialize; (2) new car sales parallel last year's, and (3) steel consumption throughout metalworking accelerates enough to convince users that their inventories are too small for comfort.

"Market analysts at many steel companies believe 1964 consumption will be at least 79 million product tons—1 million tons more than they estimated were consumed last year," the publication said.

"If steel consumption runs 79 million product tons this year, steeelmakers will have to produce at least 109 million ingot tons."

The steel ingot rate, meanwhile, has snapped back from the holiday letdown.

Steel said output is off to a good start so far with ingot operations now at a higher level than a year ago. It estimated mills made 2,040,000 ingot tons last week, compared with 1,879,000 tons in the comparable 1963 week.

Steel's price composite on the prime grade of scrap used in steelmaking, No. 1 heavy melting, rose $1.83 a ton to $28.83 last week. This is the highest level since last May.

The 7th Court of Appeals docket gained two cases during the month and now has five pending.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Unmanageable Boy Troubles Mother

Now and then a mother writes about a child 3, 4 or 5 years old she says she can't manage. Writes a mother from Missouri of her son, four: "When I punish him, he always tries to get back at me by throwing whatever is handy, or tearing something up, or going into another room and doing something he shouldn't. "I have tried spanking him for this and also ignoring it. Neither seems to work. Putting him on a chair until he cools down seems to be the best solution.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"Some days he seems to enjoy just running through the house and tearing it up. He has a 21-month-old sister who likes to run with him, and I am always afraid they are going to fall and get hurt.

—:—

"AS LONG AS the little boy has something to do with his hands such as puzzles, cutting, pasting, coloring, etc., he is good. I run out of things for him to do, though."

My reply, in part. You say yourself you are not consistent, that you sometimes punish, sometimes ignore him. You probably wait till you get good and mad before decisive action.

Then perhaps you give him just a little pat that doesn't hurt but only angers him, when you spank him. If he knew he always would get instant pain that really hurt when he threw something or destroyed something deliberately, he would avoid doing so.

Since putting him into a chair till he cools down seems to work, why not use just this for punishment? But for best results, the chair confinement should always be for a definite period, say 20 minutes.

—:—

WHY ALLOW HIM and his little sister to chase each other indoors? Outdoors is the place for running around. Chair - sitting for both children could lessen this problem and be more effective, as the time could be spent helping them do things with their hands. Also you can read to each of them or to both at once.

But you can't hope always to provide such activity. There also must be reasonable restraints.

Moreover, you and Dad should try to make this lad feel he is loved as much as his sister is. Dad might do most in this direction, trying to have more fun with the boy, building on his good traits and celebrating his successes. Help the children cultivate playmates their own age.

My bulletins, "Love and Restraint" and "Fathers Are Parents, Too" may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Clerk Flips Nuts To Avert Holdup

CINCINNATI (AP)—It could only happen in a nut house. A female clerk wielding a pound of peanut brittle routed a holdup man.

Police said Mrs. Gladys McKinney of Covington, Ky., was working at Morrow's Nut House Sunday night when a man asked for two pounds of peanut brittle.

She put one pound on a scoop scale. The man pulled a revolver and told her to forget the rest of the candy and open the cash register.

Mrs. McKinney threw the scoopful of peanut brittle in the man's face and screamed. He fled.

Shortly before midnight police said they had picked up a suspect. They declined to identify him.

Red China Population Seen Over 735 Million

HONG KONG (AP)—Population experts estimate Red China's population has topped 735 million.

Peking makes infrequent announcements on its population figures. The last such report estimated a population of 656,630,000 in 1957.

Premier Chou En-Lai told a news conference in Cairo last month China's population is increasing at an annual rate of 2 per cent, but Chou's figure is believed here to be on the conservative side.

You Should Check Services Before Property Purchase

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The tremendous increase in population and the extending of many boundaries of settled communities has developed a problem for many of the people moving to the suburbs.

The average person who is seeking a lot or piece of ground on which to build a home will do well to investigate the availability of the public services we are accustomed to, and without which we might just as well be out on the prairies.

Specifically, we refer to the availability of water supply, of gas, of electricity, of the telephone and of transportation and of schools.

It is also essential that the road or street or avenue on which the property faces will be maintained and ploughed out in winter, if it is necessary. It is hard enough for a city dweller who moves into the suburbs or country to accustom himself to a different manner of living, without being deprived of services to which he is accustomed.

The record is full of instances where people have bought property adjacent to a settled community and took it for granted that they would have electricity, gas, telephone and other essential services hooked up to their new house without any great amount of formality — only to find that the water main did not go up that far, or that telephone or electricity did not extend to the limits of their property, and if they wanted this service they would have to pay for bringing it in to that particular street.

Many of the best developers of new areas have arranged for all of this, but others have failed to advise their clients exactly what they would be up against without public services.

Man Collects Parking Fees At Lot And Flees

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—A young man broke into a downtown parking lot office. Cars began to pull into the lot. Pretending he was an employe, he parked the cars and collected 50 cents from each driver.

Police said Sunday the man fled with about $20 in parking fees and the change from a soft drink machine.

One customer said the man was "very polite, parked the cars well and seemed to really know what he was doing," police reported.

Built-Ins Use Inches While Saving Yards

PORTLAND, Ore.—When two children must share an average-size bedroom, some space juggling is involved. Here's where smart parents take a look at built-ins versus standard furniture.

Built-in storage units have several advantages. Generally, they offer more actual storage space because a built-in can be tailored to make use of otherwise wasted inches in corners, under windows and high on walls. Drawer and cabinet units also can be designed to exceed standard dimensions to give more depth or length where needed for contents.

Another advantage is that built-ins give the small bedroom architectural quality by coordinating lines and dimensions. Frequently a corresponding number of furniture pieces will create a cluttered or overcrowded look, while the built-ins produce a spacious appearance because they are actually part of the room.

High-quality lumber such as fir also adds to the appearance factor of built-ins and provides the durability needed for children's rooms. For low upkeep, fir storage units should be finished with clear matte lacquer or varnish which doesn't show soil or fingermarks. Painted surfaces are also popular, however, and are often used to highlight a color scheme.

Studio coaches are another space-saving device for children's rooms. They look less massive than beds and have the added advantage of being set against walls so that space in the center of the room is left free. A room for two younsters can be handsomely arranged with a pair of studio couches set at right angles to each other, sharing a corner table as combination headboard and nightstand. The corner table also can be designed to provide storage for extra bed linens and pillows.

The other two walls of the room can be designed with built-ins for clothing, books and study space. A good place for clothing drawers is right under the window. This unit, if low, also can work as a window seat. Corners will take floor-to-ceiling shelf units and one corner installation can include a desk, perhaps wall hung.

Minimum closets also can undergo a little remodeling to increase useability. Often just rearranging the hanging rods will double space.

EVEN A SMALL ROOM can give a child adequate space for study, play and sleep. This arrangement puts studio couches against two walls, book shelves in a corner, and wardrobe drawers under a window seat. Study desk, additional drawers and open shelves are hung on fourth wall, adjacent to closet. Easily worked Douglas fir lumber can be tailored to make use of every inch available.

Big Gains Shown In Sales Of Cars

Big gains were shown in sales of autos in Columbiana County as 1963 drew to a close, according to a report of sales tax collections issued today at Columbus by State Treasurer John D. Herbert.

Taxes on car sales produced $24,660 in the two weeks ending Dec. 28, up $2,123 from the $22,123 shown at the same time in 1962. Since the start of the fiscal year July 1, the source has produced $338,898, a gain of $35,985 from the $302,913 shown at the same time in 1962.

Sales taxes on other commodities produced $63,435 in the two weeks ending Dec. 28, down $19,226 from the $82,701 shown in the corresponding period of 1962. For the fiscal year to date, the tax has raised $635,026, up $20,716 from the $614,310 shown at the same time in 1962.

Clerk Flips Nuts To Avert Holdup

CINCINNATI (AP)—It could only happen in a nut house. A female clerk wielding a pound of peanut brittle routed a holdup man.

Police said Mrs. Gladys McKinney of Covington, Ky., was working at Morrow's Nut House Sunday night when a man asked for two pounds of peanut brittle.

She put one pound on a scoop scale. The man pulled a revolver and told her to forget the rest of the candy and open the cash register.

Mrs. McKinney threw the scoopful of peanut brittle in the man's face and screamed. He fled.

Shortly before midnight police said they had picked up a suspect. They declined to identify him.

Colorful Paint Can Change Basement Into Glamor Spot

You can change your basement into a bright family or play room with a few gallons of colorful, quick - drying quality paint and a few hours of work in which every family member can join. Your local reputable paint dealer can provide you with the quality paint.

Since almost all basement walls contain cement in one form or another, you must use a paint that will not be affected by the alkali present in cement which is not compatible with ordinary oil paint. In addition to selecting the right paint, proper surface preparation and correct application are also necessary for a successful job, points out the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

There are a number of different quality paints that are suitable for basement walls. Easiest to use are the latex paints made for use on masonry; they are quick-drying and the painting tools are easy to clean afterward. Highly regarded, too, are portland cement paints, swimming pool paints and reinforced masonry paints. For a tile-like finish on concrete block, there are also some epoxy coatings.

After selecting your color and type of paint, the next step is to prepare the surface properly. In most instances, this consists only of removing dirt, dust and loose or crumbly material with a wire brush. Grease or oil should be wiped away with paint thinner or detergent. Be sure to patch or caulk all cracks and holes. A crumbly surface may need a coat of special binding conditioner.

You don't have to wait for the walls to dry after washing if you use the latex paints. But, be sure to prime any bare metal in the walls with an anti-corrosive metal primer first. After this has dried, apply the paint with brush, roller or spray.

Portland cement paints are popular because they are long-lasting and because they are the only paints which will prevent moisture under low pressure from coming through the walls. No interior coating will hold back water under pressure, however.

The only way to keep permeable basement walls dry is to apply a heavy coat of asphalt to the outside of the walls before back-filling; this should, of course, be done while the house is being built. In addition, the earth near the foundation should be graded for easy run-off of rain water.

Portland cement paints cannot be used over surfaces that have been previously painted with anything except portland cement paint. The walls must be kept wet while the cement paint is curing. Once it has dried, it provides a long-lasting coating that bonds with the very walls.

Generally light colors are chosen for basement walls to obtain a maximum amount of light reflection. Bright accent colors will add a lively touch.

On basement floors use floor enamels meant for use on concrete. They are formulated to withstand the abrasion of shoes.

Knotty Pine Or Plywood?

Question: We have started installing the studding in our attic, which we plan to make into two bedrooms.

We had about decided on using knotty pine panels for the walls, but recently saw another attic finished with plywood and can't quite make up our minds. Can you tell us which is cheaper?

Answer: No — not without knowing the grade of knotty pine and the kind of plywood. You can get some types of plywood at a cheaper price than knotty pine panels, but others—notably, the hardwoods — are more expensive. Your decision should be based on which material you think will best suit your purpose. You can then buy that kind of material in the price range which fits your pocketbook.

Actually, you would have been wiser to make the choice before you began putting up the framework. If, for instance, you are using quarter-inch plywood, you can get by without putting up furring strips, placing the 4-by-8 sheets directly across the studding. This will only work if you do a careful job in lining up the studs.

If you are using knotty pine panels of regular or random widths, you will have to put horizontal furring strips across the studding and then attach the panels to the furring strips.

In the latter event, the studs should be 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches from the center of one stud to the next. When sturdy plywood sheets are being used, you can often place the studs 24 inches apart on center. One other point: as a compromise, you might try plywood sheets with knotty pine facing.

Ingot Figures May Be High During 1964

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel Magazine predicted today that 1964 steel ingot output in the nation's mills will be 112 million tons, fourth highest production year on record.

The national metalworking weekly journal said, however, its forecast hinged on whether (1) predictions of higher construction activity and record spending for capital equipment materialize; (2) new car sales parallel last year's, and (3) steel consumption throughout metalworking accelerates enough to convince users that their inventories are too small for comfort.

"Market analysts at many steel companies believe 1964 consumption will be at least 79 million product tons—1 million tons more than they estimated were consumed last year," the publication said.

"If steel consumption runs 79 million product tons this year, steeelmakers will have to produce at least 109 million ingot tons."

The steel ingot rate, meanwhile, has snapped back from the holiday letdown.

Steel said output is off to a good start so far with ingot operations now at a higher level than a year ago. It estimated mills made 2,040,000 ingot tons last week, compared with 1,879,000 tons in the comparable 1963 week.

Steel's price composite on the prime grade of scrap used in steelmaking, No. 1 heavy melting, rose $1.83 a ton to $28.83 last week. This is the highest level since last May.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Unmanageable Boy Troubles Mother

Now and then a mother writes about a child 3, 4 or 5 years old she says she can't manage. Writes a mother from Missouri of her son, four: "When I punish him, he always tries to get back at me by throwing whatever is handy, or tearing something up, or going into another room and doing something he shouldn't. "I have tried spanking him for this and also ignoring it. Neither seems to work. Putting him on a chair until he cools down seems to be the best solution.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"Some days he seems to enjoy just running through the house and tearing it up. He has a 21-month-old sister who likes to run with him, and I am always afraid they are going to fall and get hurt.

—:—

"AS LONG AS the little boy has something to do with his hands such as puzzles, cutting, pasting, coloring, etc., he is good. I run out of things for him to do, though."

My reply, in part. You say yourself you are not consistent, that you sometimes punish, sometimes ignore him. You probably wait till you get good and mad before decisive action.

Then perhaps you give him just a little pat that doesn't hurt but only angers him, when you spank him. If he knew he always would get instant pain that really hurt when he threw something or destroyed something deliberately, he would avoid doing so.

Since putting him into a chair till he cools down seems to work, why not use just this for punishment? But for best results, the chair confinement should always be for a definite period, say 20 minutes.

WHY ALLOW HIM and his little sister to chase each other indoors? Outdoors is the place for running around. Chair - sitting for both children could lessen this problem and be more effective, as the time could be spent helping them do things with their hands. Also you can read to each of them or to both at once.

But you can't hope always to provide such activity. There also must be reasonable restraints.

Moreover, you and Dad should try to make this lad feel he is loved as much as his sister is. Dad might do most in this direction, trying to have more fun with the boy, building on his good traits and celebrating his successes. Help the children cultivate playmates their own age.

My bulletins, "Love and Restraint" and "Fathers Are Parents, Too" may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Britain Tests 100-Ton Troop Carrier Plane

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Britain's biggest air freighter, the 100-ton plane Belfast, made a successful maiden flight Sunday.

The Belfast is designed to carry more than 200 fully armed troops. Alternative loads are three tanks or 24 light helicopters.

Potters Falter In 4th Period, Drop 61-51 Tilt To South

ELHS Lacks Rebounding In 5th Loss

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's lack of height was quite evident again and finally proved the deciding factor in a 61-51 loss to Youngstown South Saturday night before only a handful of fans at the South High Fieldhouse.

South was not the best shooting team and didn't play much defense, but the Warriors could jump and as a result took 23 more cracks at the basket than did the Potters. South would miss, but would get that second and third chance at the bucket.

The latest defeat leaves East Liverpool with a 3-5 record, while South picked up its third win against four setbacks.

—:—

COACH Jim Harris did see his Potters come from 14 points behind in the second quarter to tie the game at 37-37 in the third period as ELHS outscored the home team 17-8 during that session.

The Potters had fallen behind in the early going because of some sloppy ball handling, poor passing and bad shooting.

The rally left East Liverpool behind 41-39 as the third quarter ended.

South, which had turned cold in the third quarter, found the range in time in the final session.

After Bob Maltarich tied the count at 41-41 opening the final eight minutes, South came on to score 11 straight points to grab a decisive 53-42 lead with less than four minutes remaining in the contest.

THE POTTERS wound up shooting better than South with 31 per cent on 19 of 60. The Youngstown five took 83 shots and made 22 for 26 per cent.

East Liverpool again played without 6-4 Randy Stover and also had to go about half of the contest without its leading scorer Bob Forzano, who became a victim of two different injuries.

HE MISSED six minutes of the first quarter when he was treated in the dressing room for a deep cut on the head, then in the third quarter came up with an ankle sprain and was forced to the bench. As a result he wound up with six points, off his average of 16 per game.

Frank McComas paced the Potters in the scoring department with 15 markers, hitting on seven of 13 shots. He flipped in six in the first half and added nine in the final two periods.

—:—

McCOMAS was the lone Potter in the double figures. Three Potters dropped in eight points each, including Frank Taylor, who was held scoreless in the Oak Glen game the night before. Bob Maltarich and Bill Hall.

While the Potters grabbed very few rebounds in the first half, Taylor did turn in a good job off the boards in the second half Saturday night.

YOUNGSTOWN South under its new coach Pete Popovich threw a balanced attack at East Liverpool. Shooting mostly from the outside, South was paced by Willy Bryant with 15, while Allen Smith added 14, Wright 13 and John Turner 11.

The calls or better still, the ones that weren't called by officials Nespeca and Burkholtz also left something to be desired and at one time early in the contest brought a strong protest from Harris who was assessed with a technical foul.

Potter Matmen Gun For 4th Straight Win

East Liverpool High's wrestling team will go after its fourth straight victory Tuesday at 6 p. m. against rival Beaver Local on the Memorial Auditorium mats.

Midland Coasts To 10th Straight Win, 80-46

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Take Saturday night for instance, when in the second quarter Kuzma's unbeaten Leopards held a 20-point lead over Wellsville and were increasing it steadily.

Guard Bill Haggerty permitted himself a push shot from the backcourt, not a serious violation of offensive conduct even though he missed. But to Kuzma, it was upsetting.

—:—

HAGGERTY was hailed to the bench and stayed there until Kuzma was satisfied that the youngster realized that Kuzma-coached teams just don't take wild pot shots against anyone.

Or consider Kuzma's remarks at halftime before his Leopards took to the court again to work on their 46-30 lead.

"Work, work," Kuzma could be overheard in urging his boys on to greater heights. "Move it, move it," he continued as play got under way in the second half.

As the third quarter drew to a close and Midland was further in front, Kuzma's booming voice echoed above the noise at Beacom Memorial gym. "Ten, nine, eight..." He was counting off the seconds to help his club get in one last try at a field goal.

Alston Bags 23 To Spark Attack On Wellsville

EVEN AT the end, with his club so far in front, Kuzma was still in there plugging. He called time out with six seconds left. The reason? To practice an out-of-bounds play that almost worked.

The final score gave Midland an 80-46 victory, as the well-balanced, smooth-as-silk Leopards bagged their 10th straight triumph seemingly without effort.

MIDLAND was in front from the opening moments, rolling to an 8-0 lead before Wellsville could counter. The Leopards shot 52 per cent, hitting 36 of 69 shots from the floor.

Was Kuzma satisfied? "Well, yeah, but our defense could stand a little work," he declared later.

THE CENTER of attraction was 6-5 Sim Hill, junior pivot, who tallied 16 points on soft push shots and tips from in close. Big Ron Brown tipped and battled under the boards to account for 15, while swift forward Rod Alston led the team with 23.

Also in double figures was Norm Vanlier, a cagey guard who shoots the eyes from out of the baskets from long range. He made seven field goals for 14.

WELLSVILLE had neither the experience or height to offer much resistance to Midland's perfection - type game. Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers were scrappy throughout, but lacked good shooters and floor men. They made a number of costly turnovers, especially in the opening quarter.

Dick Call, slender forward who shows much promise, and pivot Terry Flesch, lone letterman at Wellsville, led the Tigers with 12 points each. Flesch was held scoreless in the second half. Pat Welch, the type of youngster who likes to rough it under the boards, played a pretty fair game for Wellsville and scored 10 points.

WELLSVILLE hit 18 of 65 shots for only 27 per cent, and the Tigers were outrebounded, 49-21. Hill and Brown pulled down the majority of the rebounds for Midland, using their superior height advantage.

The difference in score was probably the widest in McDevitt's six - years at Wellsville. Fortunately, the Tigers play the great Midland team only once this season and Wellsville can hope to improve on its 3-4 record against less formidable opponents in the comnig weeks.

THE RESERVE preliminary was an exciting one, with Midland's reserves pulling from behind in the final few minutes to nip the Tigers, 35-34.

Wellsville had been in front going into the final quarter, but Midland came back to take a 35-32 advantage with seconds left. Mick Comparetto, 5-11 junior, hit a drive shot at the buzzer for Wellsville, but it left Coach Chick McMillan's youngsters short by one point.

Harry Thornton, 5-6 sophomore, put on a dazzling exhibition of dribbling for Wellsville. He led his team with 10 points. Lake's 14 topped Midland's attack.

Potters Falter In 4th Period, Drop 61-51 Tilt To South

ELHS Lacks Rebounding In 5th Loss

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's lack of height was quite evident again and finally proved the deciding factor in a 61-51 loss to Youngstown South Saturday night before only a handful of fans at the South High Fieldhouse.

South was not the best shooting team and didn't play much defense, but the Warriors could jump and as a result took 23 more cracks at the basket than did the Potters. South would miss, but would get that second and third chance at the bucket.

The latest defeat leaves East Liverpool with a 3-5 record, while South picked up its third win against four setbacks.

COACH Jim Harris did see his Potters come from 14 points behind in the second quarter to tie the game at 37-37 in the third period as ELHS outscored the home team 17-8 during that session.

The Potters had fallen behind in the early going because of some sloppy ball handling, poor passing and bad shooting.

The rally left East Liverpool behind 41-39 as the third quarter ended.

South, which had turned cold in the third quarter, found the range in time in the final session.

After Bob Maltarich tied the count at 41-41 opening the final eight minutes, South came on to score 11 straight points to grab a decisive 53-42 lead with less than four minutes remaining in the contest.

THE POTTERS wound up shooting better than South with 31 per cent on 19 of 60. The Youngstown five took 83 shots and made 22 for 26 per cent.

East Liverpool again played without 6-4 Randy Stover and also had to go about half of the contest without its leading scorer Bob Forzano, who became a victim of two different injuries.

HE MISSED six minutes of the first quarter when he was treated in the dressing room for a deep cut on the head, then in the third quarter came up with an ankle sprain and was forced to the bench. As a result he wound up with six points, off his average of 16 per game.

Frank McComas paced the Potters in the scoring department with 15 markers, hitting on seven of 13 shots. He flipped in six in the first half and added nine in the final two periods.

—:—

McCOMAS was the lone Potter in the double figures. Three Potters dropped in eight points each, including Frank Taylor, who was held scoreless in the Oak Glen game the night before. Bob Maltarich and Bill Hall.

While the Potters grabbed very few rebounds in the first half, Taylor did turn in a good job off the boards in the second half Saturday night.

YOUNGSTOWN South under its new coach Pete Popovich threw a balanced attack at East Liverpool. Shooting mostly from the outside, South was paced by Willy Bryant with 15, while Allen Smith added 14, Wright 13 and John Turner 11.

The calls or better still, the ones that weren't called by officials Nespeca and Burkholtz also left something to be desired and at one time early in the contest brought a strong protest from Harris who was assessed with a technical foul.

Midland Coasts To 10th Straight Win, 80-46

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Take Saturday night for instance, when in the second quarter Kuzma's unbeaten Leopards held a 20-point lead over Wellsville and were increasing it steadily.

Guard Bill Haggerty permitted himself a push shot from the backcourt, not a serious violation of offensive conduct even though he missed. But to Kuzma, it was upsetting.

—:—

HAGGERTY was hailed to the bench and stayed there until Kuzma was satisfied that the youngster realized that Kuzma-coached teams just don't take wild pot shots against anyone.

Or consider Kuzma's remarks at halftime before his Leopards took to the court again to work on their 46-30 lead.

"Work, work," Kuzma could be overheard in urging his boys on to greater heights. "Move it, move it," he continued as play got under way in the second half.

As the third quarter drew to a close and Midland was further in front, Kuzma's booming voice echoed above the noise at Beacom Memorial gym, "Ten, nine, eight..." He was counting off the seconds to help his club get in one last try at a field goal.

EVEN AT the end, with his club so far in front, Kuzma was still in there plugging. He called time out with six seconds left. The reason? To practice an out-of-bounds play that almost worked.

The final score gave Midland an 80-46 victory, as the well-balanced, smooth-as-silk Leopards bagged their 10th straight triumph seemingly without effort.

MIDLAND was in front from the opening moments, rolling to an 8-0 lead before Wellsville could counter. The Leopards shot 52 per cent, hitting 36 of 69 shots from the floor.

Was Kuzma satisfied? "Well, yeah, but our defense could stand a little work," he declared later.

THE CENTER of attraction was 6-5 Sim Hill, junior pivot, who tallied 16 points on soft push shots and tips from in close. Big Ron Brown tipped and battled under the boards to account for 15, while swift forward Rod Alston led the team with 23.

Also in double figures was Norm Vanlier, a cagey guard who shoots the eyes from out of the baskets from long range. He made seven field goals for 14.

WELLSVILLE had neither the experience or height to offer much resistance to Midland's perfection - type game. Coach Jack McDevitt's Tigers were scrappy throughout, but lacked good shooters and floor men. They made a number of costly turnovers, especially in the opening quarter.

Dick Call, slender forward who shows much promise, and pivot Terry Flesch, lone letterman at Wellsville, led the Tigers with 12 points each. Flesch was held scoreless in the second half. Pat Welch, the type of youngster who likes to rough it under the boards, played a pretty fair game for Wellsville and scored 10 points.

WELLSVILLE hit 18 of 65 shots for only 27 per cent, and the Tigers were outrebounded, 49-21. Hill and Brown pulled down the majority of the rebounds for Midland, using their superior height advantage.

The difference in score was probably the widest in McDevitt's six - years at Wellsville. Fortunately, the Tigers play the great Midland team only once this season and Wellsville can hope to improve on its 3-4 record against less formidable opponents in the comnig weeks.

THE RESERVE preliminary was an exciting one, with Midland's reserves pulling from behind in the final few minutes to nip the Tigers, 35-34.

Wellsville had been in front going into the final quarter, but Midland came back to take a 35-32 advantage with seconds left. Mick Comparetto, 5-11 junior, hit a drive shot at the buzzer for Wellsville, but it left Coach Chick McMillan's youngsters short by one point.

Harry Thornton, 5-6 sophomore, put on a dazzling exhibition of dribbling for Wellsville. He led his team with 10 points. Lake's 14 topped Midland's attack.

AFL Title Round Is No Contest; Chargers Rout Patriots By 51 - 10

By CHARLIES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers have established to the eminent satisfaction of most precincts, and to the acute dissatisfaction of Boston, that they are the finest team in the American Football League.

And San Diego Coach Sid Gillman declared Sunday—after the Chargers won their first AFL title by demolishing Boston 51-10—that his club wouldn't disgrace itself in a game with the National Football League champions.

To which AFL Commissioner Joe Foss added that a football World Series between the AFL and NFL champions may be only a year or two away.

For the present, the suggestion that the Chargers are ready for the Chicago Bears is likely to provoke nothing more than an interminable debate. But it was clear Sunday that the Chargers were ready for something substantially better than Boston.

The Chargers gained 610 yards rushing and passing. San Diego's Keith Lincoln, in the greatest performance ever given by an AFL running back, made 206 yards as a rusher, 123 more as a pass receiver and 20 as a passer. That gave him the astonishing sum of 349 yards gained in a single game and made him almost the unanimous choice as the game's outstanding player.

Foss, asked about the possibility of a title game between the AFL and NFL champions, told The Associated Press:

"It wouldn't surprise me if such a game were to come about within a year or two. And it wouldn't surprise me if we started playing exhibition games next summer."

Foss expected a close game Sunday. But it took the Chargers less than five minutes of the first quarter to score enough points to win.

What happened was that Boston's defense started with a red dog and wound up with a red face.

The Patriots led the league in total defense this season and had great success with the red dog or blitz rush. On a sloppy field in Boston, the Patriots contained Lincoln and Charger halfback Paul Lowe and lost to San Diego by a single point, 7-6.

But the field was dry Sunday and the Chargers quickly neutralized the blitz by using pitchouts and lob passes to the outside. Several times the Boston rushers broke through the line beautifully, then discovered that the play was not in front of them but to the outside, where the Patriots had nobody waiting.

On such a play Lincoln took a pitchout from quarterback Tobin Rote and ran 67 yards for the second San Diego touchdown. The Chargers had the game won then, with 10:48 to play in the first period.

San Diego's defense held Boston to 75 yards rushing and to 186 yards passing. The Charger offense meanwhile, gained 318 yards rushing and 292 passing.

Starr's Passing Routs Cleveland

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The heralded "battle of the fullbacks" turned instead into a fight for control of the air when Bart Starr passed Green Bay to a 40-23 victory over Cleveland in the Pro Playoff Bowl game Sunday.

Starr riddled the Browns with three first-half touchdown passes, breaking the record for the four-year-old series and sweeping the Packers into a big early lead.

The margin was too big for Cleveland's quarterback Frank Ryan to overcome, but he connected with 18 aerial shots for 310 yards to break the game's mark for completions and total yardage.

During this aerial bombardment, Jim Brown of the Browns and Jim Taylor of the Packers, the No. 1 and No. 2 ground gainers of the National Football League, were called upon to run the ball only 25 times between them.

Brown gained 56 yards and Taylor 44. Both were overshadowed by Earl Gros of the Packers who netted 80 yards in 11 carries for a 7.3 average, the best of the game.

Starr, voted the day's outstanding player, hit Tom Moore with a touchdown pass that went for 99 yards to break the series record, and connected with Ron Kramer on an 18-yard scoring throw in the first quarter.

The 99-yard play was launched after the Browns failed in four plays to score from the Packers' two.

Brown and Ernie Greene gained only one yard in four smashes at the Green Bay line. Then Starr, from his end zone, threw to Moore who had worked his way into the clear and ran all the way untouched.

It was the Packers' first appearance in the Playoff Bowl, a consolation game between the runners-up of the NFL Eastern and Western Divisions.

Potter Subs Edge South For 5th Win

Chuck Winters and Bob Doland provided some clutch shooting in the last minute to give the East Liverpool reserves a 40-38 edge over the Youngstown South jayvees Saturday night.

Doland made two straight foul shots, his only points of the game, to put the Potters within one, 38-37. Winters then dropped in his only basket of the contest with 13 seconds left to put the young Potters in front 39-38. Winters also added a foul before the game was over for the two-point difference.

Joe Massey and Dan Roach with nine points each paced the Potters to their fifth win in eight outings.

Young topped South with 15 points.

After a 21-21 halftime tie, the Potters trailed 35-32 going into the fourth period.

Georgia Tech Knocks Off Unbeaten Kentucky, 76-67

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Old Man Upset whistled Dixie Saturday night and led the Southland's top basketball powers, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, into the sea for the first time this season.

The spectre, playing havoc with national rankings for the second successive week, drew assists from Kentucky-killer Georgia Tech, 76-67 victor over the top-rated Wildcats, and Tennessee, surprise 57-55 winner over sixth-ranked Vandy.

The Kentucky and Vanderbilt setbacks in Southeastern Conference openers left UCLA, Davidson and DePaul with the only perfect records among major college fives and vaulted the Bruins, No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll, into the heir-apparent role.

UCLA walloped Washington State, 121-77, for victory No. 11 and its 13th straight in a carryover from last season. The Bruins' unbeaten string is the longest in the nation after Vanderbilt's run of 15 was broken by Tennessee.

Seventh-ranked Davidson defeated West Virginia, 93-82, and unsung DePaul thumped Western Kentucky, 99-82, in a bid for national acclaim.

Loyola of Chicago, replaced by Kentucky in the No. 1 spot last week, got back into the 100-plus point groove with a 127-85 romp over Morehead State. The Ramblers, No. 3 and 10-1, equalled their all-time scoring output as Vic Rouse, Jack Egan, Les Hunter and Ron Miller all hit for 20 points or more.

Fifth-ranked Michigan defeated Northwestern, 85-73, in a Big Ten opener, and Duke, No. 9, overpowered North Carolina State, 91-70, while two other members of the top ten, Cincinnati and Oregon State, were knocking each other off in a weekend set.

The fourth-ranked Bearcats, now 8-3, edged the eighth-ranked Beavers, 57-53, Friday. OSU's seven-foot Mel Counts evened matters Saturday with a 38-point performance that helped riddle Cincinnati, 82-61. Oregon State's record is 11-2.

Villanova, No. 10 and 9-1, was idle Saturday.

Georgia Tech, a thorn in Baron Adolph Rupp's side for some time, made a wreck of Kentucky for the third straight time and sixth in the teams' last nine meetings. The Wildcats, weary after their two-game Sugar Bowl set earlier in the week, managed a two-point halftime lead but fell behind to stay early in the final period. Tech captain R. D. Craddock was the game's top scorer, with 25.

Tennessee's collapsing zone defense held Vanderbilt in check and R. W. Davis and Larry McIntosh hit free throws in the final seconds to sink the Commodores.

In other games involving major powers: St. Joseph's topped NU, 82-76; St. John's surprised Syracuse, 84-71; Oklahoma City routed Creighton, 101-85; Ohio State defeated Wisconsin by the same count; St. Bonaventure nipped Duquesne, 97-95; Iowa stunned Indiana, 72-71; Seattle outscored Arizona State, 100-96; North Carolina beat Notre Dame, 78-68; Wichita belted Drake, 67-49; Stanford clubbed USC, 62-46, and Illinois trimmed Michigan State, 87-66.

One-Sided Games Feature YMCA-Church Loop Opener

Several one-sided contests marked the opening round of the YMCA - Church Basketball League which got rolling Saturday night at the 'Y' gym.

Boyce Methodist was a 28-8 winner over First U. P. as Boyd did most of the scoring for the winners with 20 points. Flint tallied five for the losers.

LaCroft Nazarene took the measure of Calvary Methodist, 29-10. Joe Hendricks paced the scoring with 11 while Mike March wound up with seven points for Calvary.

Wellsville Central Methodist had little trouble scoring a 28-11 decision over Chester First Methodist. Tom Culp was the leading point producer with 16. Allan Collins added five for the losers.

Another whitewash showed up when St. John's smothered First Church of the Nazarene, 32-0. Hood's eight points led the way while Danny Cunningham added seven.

First Methodist topped Trinity U. P., 27-2 with Sam Scott's eight points leading the way for the winners.

St. Stephen's with D. Lowe scoring nine points defeated Chester Christian, 16-8. Campbell scored four markers for the Chester five.

In the tightest game of the evening, Grace U. P. nipped Second U. P., 18-16. John Smith fired in 12 points for the winners while Dave Pridemore scored 15 for the losers.

Wildcat Five Notches Third

Dennis Smith tossed in 12 points and Mike McVay added 11 to lead Westgate past Steubenville Central 33-26, Friday on the Westgate floor.

AFL Title Round Is No Contest; Chargers Rout Patriots By 51-10

By CHARLIES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers have established to the eminent satisfaction of most precincts, and to the acute dissatisfaction of Boston, that they are the finest team in the American Football League.

And San Diego Coach Sid Gillman declared Sunday—after the Chargers won their first AFL title by demolishing Boston 51-10—that his club wouldn't disgrace itself in a game with the National Football League champions.

To which AFL Commissioner Joe Foss added that a football World Series between the AFL and NFL champions may be only a year or two away.

For the present, the suggestion that the Chargers are ready for the Chicago Bears is likely to provoke nothing more than an interminable debate. But it was clear Sunday that the Chargers were ready for something substantially better than Boston.

The Chargers gained 610 yards rushing and passing. San Diego's Keith Lincoln, in the greatest performance ever given by an AFL running back, made 206 yards as a rusher, 123 more as a pass receiver and 20 as a passer. That gave him the astonishing sum of 349 yards gained in a single game and made him almost the unanimous choice as the game's outstanding player.

Foss, asked about the possibility of a title game between the AFL and NFL champions, told The Associated Press:

"It wouldn't surprise me if such a game were to come about within a year or two. And it wouldn't surprise me if we started playing exhibition games next summer."

Foss expected a close game Sunday. But it took the Chargers less than five minutes of the first quarter to score enough points to win.

The Patriots led the league in total defense this season and had great success with the red dog or blitz rush. On a sloppy field in Boston, the Patriots contained Lincoln and Charger halfback Paul Lowe and lost to San Diego by a single point, 7-6.

But the field was dry Sunday and the Chargers quickly neutralized the blitz by using pitchouts and lob passes to the outside. Several times the Boston rushers broke through the line beautifully, then discovered that the play was not in front of them but to the outside, where the Patriots had nobody waiting.

On such a play Lincoln took a pitchout from quarterback Tobin Rote and ran 67 yards for the second San Diego touchdown. The Chargers had the game won then, with 10:48 to play in the first period.

San Diego's defense held Boston to 75 yards rushing and to 186 yards passing. The Charger offense meanwhile, gained 318 yards rushing and 292 passing.

Starr's Passing Routs Cleveland

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The heralded "battle of the fullbacks" turned instead into a fight for control of the air when Bart Starr passed Green Bay to a 40-23 victory over Cleveland in the Pro Playoff Bowl game Sunday.

Starr riddled the Browns with three first-half touchdown passes, breaking the record for the four-year-old series and sweeping the Packers into a big early lead.

The margin was too big for Cleveland's quarterback Frank Ryan to overcome, but he connected with 18 aerial shots for 310 yards to break the game's mark for completions and total yardage.

During this aerial bombardment, Jim Brown of the Browns and Jim Taylor of the Packers, the No. 1 and No. 2 ground gainers of the National Football League, were called upon to run the ball only 25 times between them.

Brown gained 56 yards and Taylor 44. Both were overshadowed by Earl Gros of the Packers who netted 80 yards in 11 carries for a 7.3 average, the best of the game.

Starr, voted the day's outstanding player, hit Tom Moore with a touchdown pass that went for 99 yards to break the series record, and connected with Ron Kramer on an 18-yard scoring throw in the first quarter.

The 99-yard play was launched after the Browns failed in four plays to score from the Packers' two.

Brown and Ernie Greene gained only one yard in four smashes at the Green Bay line. Then Starr, from his end zone, threw to Moore who had worked his way into the clear and ran all the way untouched.

It was the Packers' first appearance in the Playoff Bowl, a consolation game between the runners-up of the NFL Eastern and Western Divisions.

Potter Subs Edge South For 5th Win

Chuck Winters and Bob Doland provided some clutch shooting in the last minute to give the East Liverpool reserves a 40-38 edge over the Youngstown South jayvees Saturday night.

Doland made two straight foul shots, his only points of the game, to put the Potters within one, 38-37. Winters then dropped in his only basket of the contest with 13 seconds left to put the young Potters in front 39-38. Winters also added a foul before the game was over for the two-point difference.

Joe Massey and Dan Roach with nine points each paced the Potters to their fifth win in eight outings.

Young topped South with 15 points.

After a 21-21 halftime tie, the Potters trailed 35-32 going into the fourth period.

Georgia Tech Knocks Off Unbeaten Kentucky, 76-67

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Old Man Upset whistled Dixie Saturday night and led the Southland's top basketball powers, Kentucky and Vanderbilt, into the sea for the first time this season.

The spectre, playing havoc with national rankings for the second successive week, drew assists from Kentucky-killer Georgia Tech, 76-67 victor over the top-rated Wildcats, and Tennessee, surprise 57-55 winner over sixth-ranked Vandy.

The Kentucky and Vanderbilt setbacks in Southeastern Conference openers left UCLA, Davidson and DePaul with the only perfect records among major college fives and vaulted the Bruins, No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll, into the heir-apparent role.

UCLA walloped Washington State, 121-77, for victory No. 11 and its 13th straight in a carryover from last season. The Bruins' unbeaten string is the longest in the nation after Vanderbilt's run of 15 was broken by Tennessee.

Seventh-ranked Davidson defeated West Virginia, 93-82, and unsung DePaul thumped Western Kentucky, 99-82, in a bid for national acclaim.

Loyola of Chicago, replaced by Kentucky in the No. 1 spot last week, got back into the 100-plus point groove with a 127-85 romp over Morehead State. The Ramblers, No. 3 and 10-1, equalled their all-time scoring output as Vic Rouse, Jack Egan, Les Hunter and Ron Miller all hit for 20 points or more.

Fifth-ranked Michigan defeated Northwestern, 85-73, in a Big Ten opener, and Duke, No. 9, overpowered North Carolina State, 91-70, while two other members of the top ten, Cincinnati and Oregon State, were knocking each other off in a weekend set.

The fourth-ranked Bearcats, now 8-3, edged the eighth-ranked Beavers, 57-53, Friday. OSU's seven-foot Mel Counts evened matters Saturday with a 38-point performance that helped riddle Cincinnati, 82-61. Oregon State's record is 11-2.

Villanova, No. 10 and 9-1, was idle Saturday.

Georgia Tech, a thorn in Baron Adolph Rupp's side for some time, made a wreck of Kentucky for the third straight time and sixth in the teams' last nine meetings. The Wildcats, weary after their two-game Sugar Bowl set earlier in the week, managed a two-point halftime lead but fell behind to stay early in the final period. Tech captain R. D. Craddock was the game's top scorer, with 25.

Tennessee's collapsing zone defense held Vanderbilt in check and R. W. Davis and Larry McIntosh hit free throws in the final seconds to sink the Commodores.

In other games involving major powers: St. Joseph's topped NU, 82-76; St. John's surprised Syracuse, 84-71; Oklahoma City routed Creighton, 101-85; Ohio State defeated Wisconsin by the same count; St. Bonaventure nipped Duquesne, 97-95; Iowa stunned Indiana, 72-71; Seattle outscored Arizona State, 100-96; North Carolina beat Notre Dame, 78-68; Wichita belted Drake, 67-49; Stanford clubbed USC, 62-46, and Illinois trimmed Michigan State, 87-66.

One-Sided Games Feature YMCA-Church Loop Opener

Several one-sided contests marked the opening round of the YMCA - Church Basketball League which got rolling Saturday night at the 'Y' gym.

Boyce Methodist was a 28-8 winner over First U. P. as Boyd did most of the scoring for the winners with 20 points. Flint tallied five for the losers.

LaCroft Nazarene took the measure of Calvary Methodist, 29-10. Joe Hendricks paced the scoring with 11 while Mike March wound up with seven points for Calvary.

Wellsville Central Methodist had little trouble scoring a 28-11 decision over Chester First Methodist. Tom Culp was the leading point producer with 16. Allan Collins added five for the losers.

Another whitewash showed up when St. John's smothered First Church of the Nazarene, 32-0. Hood's eight points led the way while Danny Cunningham added seven.

First Methodist topped Trinity U. P., 27-2 with Sam Scott's eight points leading the way for the winners.

St. Stephen's with D. Lowe scoring nine points defeated Chester Christian, 16-8. Campbell scored four markers for the Chester five.

In the tightest game of the evening, Grace U. P. nipped Second U. P., 18-16. John Smith fired in 12 points for the winners while Dave Pridemore scored 15 for the losers.

Wildcat Five Notches Third

Dennis Smith tossed in 12 points and Mike McVay added 11 to lead Westgate past Steubenville Central 33-26, Friday on the Westgate floor.

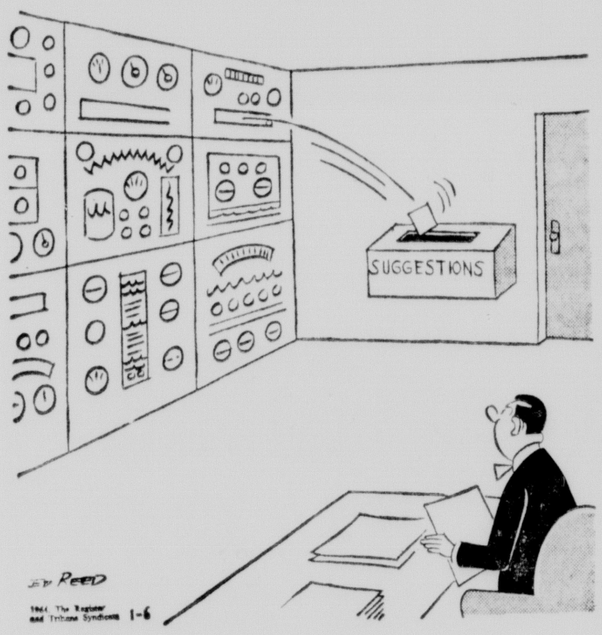
OFF THE RECORD



How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I impart a good polish to mahogany furniture?

A.—Rub the surface first with lemon oil, then clean it off. After this, soft cheesecloth that has been treated with alcohol and patted only until the vapor remains, is rubbed quickly over the surface, which brings out a clear, lustrous finish.

Q.—How can I facilitate the opening of fresh coconuts?

A.—First put them into a warm oven for about 20 minutes, then allow to cool. They should then crack open of their own accord — but if they don't, a few light taps with a hammer will do the trick.

Q.—How can I "heal" bruises on velveteen or velvet dresses?

A.—Place the crushed area, pile down, over a brush of many bristles. Now hold a steam iron just above the back of the fabric, and let the steam pour down through the pile. Then remove from the brush, and shake until partially dry. Then leave alone until the fabric is entirely dry.

Q.—What can I do when I have inadvertently added too much salt to food whlie cooking?

A.—Stretch a clean cloth tightly over the vessel and sprinkle a tablespoon of flour over the cloth. The four will absorb the salt, if allowed to steam for a few minutes.

Q.—How can I straighten out warped phonograph records?

A.—One often - successful treatment is to place the record between two pieces of glass, and set this where the sun will shine on it for an hour or so.

Q.—How can I remove paint and putty stains from window glass?

A.—Use a wet cloth dipped in baking soda, and rub over the glass. After 15 minutes, wash with warm water without soap, then rub until dry, and polish.

Junior Editors Quiz on "TEDDY"

QUESTION: Why do they call a toy bear "teddy?"

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: There have been few American leaders more popular than Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, whose terms of office lay between 1901 and 1909. People admired him because, although a sickly child, he built himself up by determination and will power into a rugged and forceful man. They admired him during the Spanish American war when he organized a cavalry regiment called the "Rough Riders" and led a gallant charge in Cuba which helped break the spirit of the enemy. Later, as president, people liked him for his straightforward honesty, concern for the people and sense of fair play. They spoke of him affectionately as "T.R." or "Teddy." Roosevelt had a great love for the outdoors and animals. Cartoonists of the time liked to caricature him somewhat as shown by the figure to right. One such cartoon showed him with a bear cub. Toy makers saw the opportunity and produced cute little stuffed bears called teddy bears because of the president's nickname. We still call them that, even if we have forgotten the connection between them and a greatly loved president.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: See how well you can draw our teddy bear, making it look like a toy. Then find a picture of a real bear and draw that. The real bear won't have button eyes like the teddy; his legs and feet will be bigger and have more shape, also long claws.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I'm a disgusted seamstress. I have taken out and replaced so many zippers that I would like to caution your readers to read the fine print on zippers before buying them. They often state "Iron as nylon" or "Do not use hot iron."

In the manufacturers opinion this is enough warning, but with a dozen cotton dresses coming in each day with this type of zipper, I would like someone to tell me how I can possibly iron a cotton dress (which always requires a hot iron) without touching the zipper?

It might save someone not only the trouble of going to town again and trying to find a metal zipper, but the expense, time and energy of replacing it. Read your label, gals. Let's stick by each other.

SEAMSTRESS.

Remember Joe Blow? The little guy who writes the instructions? READ before you buy . . . or try . . .

I agree with that seamstress.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I clean my clothespins by putting them in a pail of water and pouring half a cup of household bleach over them. I let this stand sometimes as long as overnight.

After they are bleached, I put the pail under the water faucet and let the cold water run over them and tumble gently and the bleach is rinsed off.

I remove and lay on newspapers. The newspaper takes up the heavy moisture. Later, I put them on the clothesline to dry.

MRS. BURDIN.

DEAR HELOISE: When tomatoes are plentiful they can be frozen whole and are absolutely delicious in homemade soup. Just defrost them before placing them in the kettle.

MRS. EEN WEISZ.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep a little girl's hair ribbons always pressed . . . when you wash them, wrap them around empty thread spools and allow them to dry that way. The ribbons are always self-pressed.

Also, it is an easier way to keep them sorted and in order, and they never get wrinkled.

MOTHER.

Could be fastened with a rubber-band. Great idea you shared, Mommy.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a small hint from another mother.

I keep my baby food jars together in one neat, easy-to-reach spot in our refrigerator by keeping them in the plastic trays that packaged tomatoes come in!

It means no more grasping around for that lost jar, spilling the contents, etc. Every little jar is in place and easily reached without being spilled. Furthermore, by pulling out the plastic tomato tray, I can see the half-used jars . . . so nothing is wasted.

MRS. M. L. R.

DEAR HELOISE: I'm an oldster, past 80. I have a daughter who is 52. I am cold-blooded and my daughter has arthritis. We have found that sleeping on blanket-sheets (an inexpensive type of cotton blanket that many people use in cold weather in place of sheets) are the best thing for us.

We have one complaint. Just how do you keep them on the bed?

OLDSTER.

Anyone know? If so do drop us a line and let's help this woman. Write to Heloise in care of this paper. And while you're at it . . . include your troubles, too. Maybe we can help you.

HELOISE.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Feeding Of Prisoners Cost $945 Last Month

LISBON — It cost $945.50 to serve 2,893 meals at the Columbiana County Jail during December, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan reports in his monthly summary. The average food cost per prisoner awas 98 cents per day.

The jail received 35 prisoners last month in addition to the 44 already confined as of Dec. 1. Fourty-seven prisoners were released in December, seven were conveyed to state instututions and five mental patients were taken to state hospitals. The jail had 157 visitors.

The sheriff said 224 papers were served and 5,875 radio transmissions and 1,021 telephone calls were handled at the jail. Fees of $667.72 were collected.

Twenty-four sets of fox feet and ears were turned in at the sheriff's office in the Courthouse for the $3 bounty.

Natives of Basutoland, in times of trouble smear on their bodies a mixture of boiled human flesh, blood, fat and herbs. To be really potent, the flesh must be stripped from a living victim, according to the National Geographic Society.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I'm a disgusted seamstress. I have taken out and replaced so many zippers that I would like to caution your readers to read the fine print on zippers before buying them. They often state "Iron as nylon" or "Do not use hot iron."

In the manufacturers opinion this is enough warning, but with a dozen cotton dresses coming in each day with this type of zipper, I would like someone to tell me how I can possibly iron a cotton dress (which always requires a hot iron) without touching the zipper?

It might save someone not only the trouble of going to town again and trying to find a metal zipper, but the expense, time and energy of replacing it. Read your label, gals. Let's stick by each other.

SEAMSTRESS.

Remember Joe Blow? The little guy who writes the instructions? READ before you buy . . . or try . . .

I agree with that seamstress.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I clean my clothespins by putting them in a pail of water and pouring half a cup of household bleach over them. I let this stand sometimes as long as overnight.

After they are bleached, I put the pail under the water faucet and let the cold water run over them and tumble gently and the bleach is rinsed off.

I remove and lay on newspapers. The newspaper takes up the heavy moisture. Later, I put them on the clothesline to dry.

MRS. BURDIN.

DEAR HELOISE: When tomatoes are plentiful they can be frozen whole and are absolutely delicious in homemade soup. Just defrost them before placing them in the kettle.

MRS. EEN WEISZ.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep a little girl's hair ribbons always pressed . . . when you wash them, wrap them around empty thread spools and allow them to dry that way. The ribbons are always self-pressed.

Also, it is an easier way to keep them sorted and in order, and they never get wrinkled.

MOTHER.

Could be fastened with a rubber-band. Great idea you shared, Mommy.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a small hint from another mother.

I keep my baby food jars together in one neat, easy-to-reach spot in our refrigerator by keeping them in the plastic trays that packaged tomatoes come in!

It means no more grasping around for that lost jar, spilling the contents, etc. Every little jar is in place and easily reached without being spilled. Furthermore, by pulling out the plastic tomato tray, I can see the half-used jars . . . so nothing is wasted.

MRS. M. L. R.

DEAR HELOISE: I'm an oldster, past 80. I have a daughter who is 52. I am cold-blooded and my daughter has arthritis. We have found that sleeping on blanket-sheets (an inexpensive type of cotton blanket that many people use in cold weather in place of sheets) are the best thing for us.

We have one complaint. Just how do you keep them on the bed?

OLDSTER.

Anyone know? If so do drop us a line and let's help this woman. Write to Heloise in care of this paper. And while you're at it . . . include your troubles, too. Maybe we can help you.
